RAINS AND LULL IN WINDS CURB SPREAD OF FIRE

Two Woodsmen Perish and Thousands of Acres of Timber Are Destroyed

TIPLER, WIS., IN RUINS

Rains Needed to Safeguard
Northeast Wisconsin,
Upper Michigan

Milwaukee—(P)—Rainfall throughout northern Wisconsin and the Michigan peninsula today brought relief to thousands whose property was destroyed or menaced by flames which practically wiped out one village, burned two woodsmen to death, and razed thousands of acres of timber and outcrops.

Hours of steady rain quelled fires which lingered in three Michigan counties after the northwestern part of the state received a drenching downpour last night. John Andrews, Jr., district fire warden at Iron Mountain, said all fires in the Michigan peninsula were extinguished or under control.

Hundreds of weary fire fighters assigned to duty near Long Lake and Pine River in Florence, Wis., where the worst of last week's fires raged, were permitted to discontinue patrols, but remained subject to call in the event of unexpected outbreaks.

An appeal to the National Red Cross headquarters for assistance to the 125 homeless residents of Tipler, Wis., was contemplated. Living quarters and supplies were temporarily supplied them by residents of neighboring farms and towns.

Although the rainfall was the heaviest of the season in many localities a shortage of water still existed in reservoirs and streams in the affected area. The Northern States Power company at Eau Claire reported its largest reservoir dam on the Chippewa river was virtually empty.

Flames roared into Tipler, Wis., as residents fled the doomed village. Only seven dwellings and the school house remain. Property damage was estimated by village officials at more than $300,000. The women and children were taken to neighboring towns.

Charles Dryden, 45, and Louis Brunn, 50, both of Morse, Wis., lost their lives as they fought fires near there.

In the Michigan peninsula, serious blazes still burned in Menominee, Iron and Dickinson counties. Near Iron Mountain, Nathan, Nadeau and Randville, more than 1,000 men were on duty battling fires.

Tipler was burned Saturday when an unexpected wind of near gale intensity lashed the flames into the town and scattered embers from buildings to buildings. Thirty-three houses, the Northwestern station, the Tipler Lumber mill, the Marie Quimby general store, 29 barns, 25 flat cars, pulpwood and cedar poles valued at $40,000, burned.

No Deaths in Village

There was no loss of life. William Benter, former village clerk, reported missing in the fire, was discovered safe after a narrow escape, with his wife, from their blazing home.

Scenes reminiscent of war were enacted at Tipler. Women hastily hid their belongings and threw them into sacks and bags. There were frenzied cries as members of families could not be located, the cries of joy when it was found that the others had been taken ahead safely.

Iron River, Mich., and other towns near Tipler took on aspects of a refugee camp. In Iron River the city gave out food and lodging in the city hall, homes and hotels.

Newspaper correspondents who made trips through the area described it as a charred no-man's-land. Ashes and smoke made the air heavy and obscured the sky.

Northeastern Wisconsin and upper Michigan counties, parched by drought, will see repetition of the fires that in two weeks have destroyed two villages, forestry officials said, unless rain comes soon.

A sudden flare of wind today is likely to force flames, as one fire warden described it, "God knows where."

Last weekend, Wallace, Mich., met the fate of Tipler.

While most of the fires are considered under control, there are hundreds of separate blazes burning, several of which may cause serious damage at any time, forestry officials said.

BOY LEFT IN GRAVE REPORTED RECOVERING

Sidney, Neb.—(P)—Slugged and apparently left for dead in a rude grave, a 15-year-old boy was recovering today at a Sidney hospital.

The boy, Frederick Staats, seemed to have lost his memory and officers were unable to question him successfully. They said robbery might have been the motive for the attack, but also were investigating the possibility that Staats had half buried himself beneath a rocky ledge 250 yards south of the farm home. The house had been ransacked and robbed.

New London Man Killed By Motorist

TEN WISCONSIN RESIDENTS DIE IN ACCIDENTS

Thomas Lovdahl, 60, New London, was killed when he stepped into the path of a car driven by Myron Marshak of Clintonville, at about 8:30 Sunday evening at New London. Lovdahl and his wife were walking along the Shawanond on their way to a party at the Fred Reop residence. When within a few blocks of their destination Mrs. Lovdahl crossed the pavement. Her husband, attempting to follow her, was struck by the southbound automobile.

Marshak was accompanied by his brother, D. Marshak and Lee Shingler, also of Clintonville. The young men took the injured man to Community hospital. He was pronounced dead upon arrival. There the body was removed later to the Pommering-Cline undertaking parlors in New London. The young men were questioned by Sheriff Steenbeck of Waupaca-co. Lovdahl's neck and left leg were fractured. He is survived by his widow and one son, who resides in Michigan.

Although it was not believed that an inquest would be held, the report could not be verified this morning as Sheriff Steenbeck had left Waupaca for the day. T. D. Smith, district attorney, said this morning he had not heard of the accident.

Illness Forces Change In Schedule As Siamese King Arrives From Canada

On Board Imperial Siamese Special Train Enroute to New York—Minot, N. D.—(P)—The spectre of illness hovered over the train bearing the king and queen of Siam to New York as they sped through North Dakota today under a revised schedule which would bring the monarch to the east for treatment with least delay.

The frail king, suffering from a cold, met representatives of President Hoover and Secretary Stimson at the international border town of Portal, N. D. The queen, who had contracted a cold, was unable to appear.

The king chatted affably with the American emissaries, Richard Southgate, acting chief of the division of international conferences and protocols, who greeted the monarch at the boundary line in behalf of the president, and Stanley K. Hornbeck, chief of the division of Far Eastern affairs, representing Secretary Stimson.

As the train left Portal, the king issued a statement expressing his pleasure at the opportunity to renew acquaintances with the United States, where he had visited before his accession to the throne in 1921.

"To come from Siam to the border of the United States," the statement said, "is to approach the home of a friend where, seven years ago, the queen and I spent many happy weeks. I bring back cordial recollection of the courtesies shown to us on that occasion and I look forward to renewing associations then formed, as well as availing myself of the skill of your surgeons, whose mastery of medical science is renowned throughout the world. He has sensed the underlying sympathy that has characterized the feeling of the people of this republic toward my country and at this threshold I would voice the reciprocal good will of the Siamese nation."

The king's entry into the United States on a wind swept prairie where many hundred residents of Portal looked on curiously was with little ceremony.

Canadian officials who rode with the royal party to the international boundary took leave of the king at Portal, and were replaced by the American representatives, and federal operatives.

A crowd milled about the train as the monarch was welcomed into the United States was carried out. The hundreds of Portal residents who "waited up" for the king's arrival witnessed the entire proceedings which could be observed through the train windows.

The king halted in an informal manner about his visit to America and expressed his anxiety to view New York which he remarked had apparently changed considerably since he and the queen visited there seven years ago.

The king's immediate party, of which Prince Savasi, father-in-law and uncle of the monarch, appeared as spokesman, was anxious to hurry the trip east so that the king could rest. Prince Savasi, however, was optimistic about the king's health, which he said had turned for the better during the last leg of the trip to the border.

The last session of congress provided $500,000 for this work during the coming year, an increase of more than $100,000. This made it possible for the secretary to extend the service into every state and the District of Columbia.

Doak said the reorganization was designed to take care of anything that might arise in the future.

One of the troubles that has plagued the employment service in the past has been frequent inability to care for interstate employment situations. The old organization functioned largely within each state where it had cooperative arrangements with state services. The new will cooperate in every possible way with state agencies but also will be able to care for interstate needs.

COLD SPELL PREVAILS IN PRAIRIE DISTRICT

Kansas City—(P)—Unseasonably cold weather prevailed in the prairie region between Kansas City and the Rocky mountains today.

Snow was falling in Wyoming, Montana, eastern Colorado, and was creeping into western Nebraska and western Kansas. At points near Cheyenne the temperature dropped to 22 degrees and at Goodland, Kas., a temperature of 30 was reported.

The local weather bureau said the storm probably would veer to the south. Rains during the last 24 hours were generous in Kansas and Missouri.

NEW TRIAL ASKED FOR CONVICTED SLAYER

Miller, S. D.—(P)—Judge Frank Fisher was asked today to grant a new circuit court trial for Alphonse Lapke, Hand-co farmer who was sentenced last spring to life imprisonment for the murder of his mother, Mrs. Anton Lapke.

Claiming technical errors and insufficient evidence in the 1929 trial, and newly discovered information, attorneys for the 31-year-old convicted slayer came before Judge Fisher with their new trial motion.

The defense presented affidavits seeking to show some other person or persons beside members of the Lapke family were in the vicinity of their farm home 20 miles north of here the night Mrs. Lapke was killed in December, 1922.

HUNGARIAN COUNTESS PLUNGES TO HER DEATH

The countess was Russian by birth and bore the name Klides before her marriage.

Three Plead Not Guilty In Abduction

Husband and Two Companions Bound Over on Charge at Madison

Madison—(P)—Pleading not guilty to charges of kidnapping Helen Fisher, 20-year-old New York co-ed, Harry Hamilton Drill, 20, the girl's husband, and two companions were held here under bond today for preliminary hearing Friday.

Mrs. Drill preferred the charges against her husband and Harold Caldwell, 20, and Elmer Peterson, 27, all of St. Paul. She signed the complaints with her maiden name, contending her marriage was illegal because she had been forced into it.

County Judge George Kronske set bail at $20,000 for each of the trio, $10,000 on a charge of holding the girl against her will and a like amount on a charge of transporting her against her will.

Although the charges were preferred under the Wisconsin kidnapping laws, it is believed that authorities will surrender the men to New York officials if Gov. Philip LaFollette signs extradition papers.

A ruse by the young wife led to the arrest of the trio here last night after a journey by automobile from New York, the scene of the alleged kidnapping.

Dra. Drill was represented in court by W. J. Aberg and Bryce Lehmann, Madison and St. Paul attorneys, respectively. Her husband appeared in court in a regulation second lieutenant army uniform and he holds a commission in the reserve corps.

The young wife, missing from her New York apartment since Thursday, said she was for a time in an automobile owned by a Columbia university student, transferred to another car, and compelled to come west with her husband and his companions.

"Along the way she left, penciled notes of him, a pig-tail. One of them, scrawled on a paper towel in a LaPorte, Ind., filling station, resulted in the arrest of the men."

"Have been kidnapped. Please inform—name withheld by authorities—of Port Richmond, N. Y. next top Park hotel, Madison. They sent my clothes there."

She left the water running in the washroom so an attendant would be certain to find the note. The message was found and relayed to Sheriff F. T. Finn here. The men were arrested at the Park hotel, Finn said. Caldwell and Peterson confessed completely in the affair. The husband was evasive and after a long distance telephone call to his father said he would fight extradition.

The brief and periodic matrimonial adventures of the couple have been stormy, according to the girl's story.

U. S. STEEL ADOPTS NEW PENSION PLAN

President James A. Farrell to Retire in 1933 Under New System

Hoboken, N. J.—(P)—Stockholders of the United States Steel Corp. today adopted the proposed pension plan under which James A. Farrell, president, and for several years a leading figure in the steel industry, would automatically retire on reaching the age of 70, or in 1933.

Mr. Farrell was the first to advocate the new plan before the annual stockholders meeting today, pointing out that the old plan had been unsatisfactory.

Myron C. Taylor, chairman of the finance committee, said he and Mr. Farrell had spent considerable time in perfecting the new plan.

"I think that the pension plan is the greatest thing that this corporation has done with the respect to the welfare of its men in the history of the corporation," Mr. Farrell said.

Compensation under the new plan will be materially greater than it was under the old arrangement.

Speaking on the employer's profit-sharing plan, Taylor said it called for payments from net income after depletion and depreciation, and when this net income exceeded $100,000 annually. Since the plan was organized in 1921 approximately 60 per cent had been distributed a total in cash, the balance has been invested in U. S. Steel common stock at the prevailing market price. He said that during the 10 years from 1921 until 1931, distributions had been made annually except in 1921 and 1922, and the average distributed during the eight years amounted to $3,112,168.

FORMER SUITOR BEING SOUGHT BY OFFICIALS

Accused of Entering Home and Abducting 14-year-old Girl in Auto

Green Bay—(P)—Police and sheriffs officers throughout northern and eastern Wisconsin were asked today to be on the lookout for Helen Verheyen, 14, of Little Rapids, 12 miles southwest of here, and John Stiekl, 24, her alleged kidnaper.

Sheriff Joseph Francis of Brown-co, said he had received reports which indicated Stiekl abducted the girl for the purpose of marriage. He has professed his love for her.

The girl disappeared last Saturday night from the Little Rapids home of James Miller. She had been caring for the children while the Millers, her parents, Mr. and Mrs. Anton Verheyen and most of the other residents of the village attended a party.

The children said Stiekl drove up to the Miller house and entered. Helen, her coat and slippers removed, was seated before the radio. The children said Stiekl seized and choked her, then carried her off to his automobile and drove away.

Stiekl lived at the Verheyen home for two years, but was ordered to leave last December when Verheyen learned he had announced in which his desire to marry Helen. He went to Milwaukee, he returned Saturday for a visit at the Verheyen residence.

Stiekl drove a red Chevrolet coupe bearing 1930 license plates. The girl was taken away without her coat or shoes. They were found in the Millers' house after she disappeared. She was wearing a flowered dress when last seen here. She was described as being large for her age.

Depression Challenge To All People Of U. S., Gifford Says

CHIEF OF A. T. T. IS OPTIMISTIC ABOUT FUTURE

Thousands of Able People to Help Bring About Solution, He Thinks

New York —(AP)—Optimism as to business was expressed today by Walter S. Gifford, president of the American Telephone and Telegraph company, speaking at the annual luncheon of the Associated Press.

"I want to reaffirm my faith in the continued progress of our country, in the common sense and ability of its people," he said. "In short, I want to reaffirm my faith in American democracy—political, social and economic—and to add that the experiences of the depression have done more to confirm this faith than the experiences of the boom that preceded it."

"As our industrial development proceeded we have added to political freedom and intellectual freedom, freedom from economic want as one of our democratic objectives. I know that there are right now several million men and women who want work but are unemployed in this country. But as bitter a picture as that is, it does not change the fact that our industrial civilization has brought us within sight of a democracy of well-being, and has crystallized our intention to see it accomplished."

"Before machines added to man's ability to produce, the cycles of depression were caused by under-production. Years came when there was not enough to go around—when people died of cold, hunger and disease in such numbers that the world accepted Malthus' theory. The condition of having people out of work in a country that has more of everything than it needs is, unmanly speaking, a vast advance over having people without clothes, food or shelter in a country that has not enough of the essentials to go around."

"In my opinion there is no use looking for any Napoleon to lead us on to economic Australitis—or to Waterloo."

Need Combined Effort

"We are going to go forward out of this valley as we have from others before by the democratic road—by the thought and efforts of thousands of intelligent able people—by the wisdom of the many."

"Whose depression is this? If, as has been said, a fundamental cause is it is greed who are they that did not add their part to the picture? This is a democracy of blame as well as opportunity. We were all in it—clapper, financier, newspapermen and manufacturers, laborers and politicians."

"We have with us those who want to return to the good old times. They are of the order of the wufus birds. As you know these interesting birds fly backward to keep the wind out of their eyes and they are not interested in where they are going only in where they have been."

"And then there are those who shout from the housetops that if we do not take their particular medicine the bolsheviks will get us. These folks, unlike the wufus birds, want to go somewhere. They want us to progress but they want us to progress from terror rather by conviction. These people are wrong."

Must Use Own Methods

"Neither our ambitions nor our imaginations are dead and we intend to go much further forward from where we are now or even from where we were just before this depression, and we shall do it by our own particular methods."

"Are we getting anywhere? I think so."

"We like to see wage scales maintained—we are committed to the theory of a high standard of living for all. In no other cycle of this kind have wages ever been maintained as they have in this. It is true all wage scales have not been maintained. Although the present scale of wages would be equivalent to a large increase in commodity prices and the cost of living should stay down, we ought, I believe, to make every effort to maintain the wage scale."

"I believe in the common sense and ability of the American people and I have, therefore, no fears of the present or the future. The immediate present, statisticians of the telephone company tell me, show signs of improvement."

"The mastery of depression is one of the challenges ahead of us. Let us continue to attack it."

Socialist Papers Under Cathedral's Cornerstone

London —(AP)—Posterity—probably a very remote posterity—has been robbed of a surprise by the confession of an elderly stone mason that before King Edward laid the foundation stone of the Liverpool cathedral in 1904 he placed beneath it a sealed metal box containing Socialist newspapers and propaganda.

Socialism in those days was regarded far less "respectable" than now when it is the avowed creed of his majesty's ministers and a large section of the nation, and the action of the stonemason, Fred Bower by name, would have brought a shock of horror had it been known.

According to Bower if, some day, the cathedral is demolished there will be found under the cornerstone besides documents and coins laid there officially in accordance with tradition some Socialist pamphlets, in one of which are the words:

"This church was erected to commemorate the work of the unemployed carpenter, Jesus Christ, yet within its shadow there are slums unfit to house pigs. There will pass away in the light of education and you will be living in a better England through the efforts of us who are de- and gone."

Bower rounds out his story by saying that he told Philip Snowden, present chancellor of the exchequer, at the time what he had done and Snowden urged him to keep it secret until several tons of granite covered the box. Otherwise, Snowden said, the authorities would have it unearthed. He has followed Snowden's advice until now.

SCHMIEGE BILL IS CONSIDERED BY LEGISLATORS

State Lawmakers to Take Up Problem of Chain Banking This Week

A bill introduced by Oscar J. Schmiede, Appleton, assemblyman from the first Outagamie-co district, will be among those considered this week when the assembly committee on insurance and banking reviews the entire matter of chain banking.

Mr. Schmiede says, he believes his bill will go as far as possible toward curbing chain banks.

The Schmiede bill provides that any domestic business corporation is prohibited from owning more than 10 per cent of the stock of any bank and provides further that any corporation now owning more than 10 per cent of the stock of any bank shall dispose of such excess by Jan. 1, 1932. The same provisions apply to foreign corporations.

Need Big Vote

Another provision is that no state or national bank which is controlled by a holding company can serve as a depository for any public funds. It will require an overwhelming sentiment in the two houses of the legislature to pass any of the chain bank measures as these bills require the votes of three-fifths of all the members elected to the legislature. This means that a banking

Governor La Follette earlier in the year promised a special message on the chain bank question and this is still expected in the legislature.

Supporters of the governor contend that there has been no effort to avoid the chain question at this session and that it is still due for a thorough review.

RE-EVALUATION OF CITY IS NOT TO BOOST TAXES

Mayor Says Work Is Being Done in Effort to Adjust Assessments

That the re-evaluation of Appleton is not an attempt to raise taxes, but an effort to equalize the assessment on all property was emphasized Monday morning by Mayor John Goodland, Jr.

Appleton has never had a re-evaluation, with the result that property values are by this time widely divergent in the tax rolls from year to year, he said. The city was assessed for approximately $33,552,952 last year, but was taxed by the county on the basis of a $53,072,969 valuation. Some states require reassessment every five years for cities of this size.

The seven men hired to assist in the assessment, are not assessors, and do not make the final assessment. They are men in the employ of the city, under the supervision of L. J. Rich, an employee of the Wisconsin Tax Commission. These men are merely collecting valuable data and estimates from which the property can be properly and equitably assessed by the city assessor's department.

The field men have been evaluating property since Feb. 24, and the task will take several more months. The men, who have been thoroughly schooled in the work of detailing property, study every piece of property, compare it with adjacent properties, check its condition, its past sales record, and finally determine the full value which could ordinarily be obtained at private sale.

The principal sources of information on which their work is based is evidence. The structural value, the rental value and general information regarding the desirability of a certain piece of property are merely used as guides to provide the assessing officer with proper information for an intelligent comparative study of sales values and to help him determine the full market value in making his assessment. Under the Wisconsin law property is to be assessed at the price it will sell for in a private sale.

Courteous treatment of the men in the field will be appreciated by the workers and by city officials.

Per Capita City Sales Total $707

Appleton's per capita retail sales are higher than those of 19 other cities in the state, a survey made by the bureau of census of the United States department of commerce shows. With 346 retail stores, Appleton's retail sales amount to $707 per capita, $31 higher than the next highest city, Janesville Madison and Milwaukee are not included in the survey.

Ten cities, Fond du Lac, Wausau, Green Bay, Sheboygan, LaCrosse, Eau Claire, Racine, Oshkosh, Superior, and Kenosha, have more retail stores than Appleton. Racine, with retail sales of only $614 per capita, has 1,145 outlets.

Other cities listed, with the number of stores and per capita sales are: Janesville, 327 outlets, $676; Fond du Lac, 471, $653; Wausau, 367, $632; Green Bay, 502, $644; Waukesha, 268, $635; Sheboygan, 563, $621; LaCrosse, 356, $617; Eau Claire, 366, $617; Racine, 1,145, $614; Beloit, 532, $600; Oshkosh, 553, $591; Manitowish, 322, $568; Stevens Point, 248, $566; Ashland, 216, $541; Marinette, 233, $537; Superior, 571, $512; Two Rivers, 134, $504; and Kenosha, 657, $494.

MOTORISTS GET BENEFIT OF WAR ON GAS PRICES

Other Big Companies Plan to Follow Lead of Standard Oil Company

The recent introduction in Appleton and other cities by the Standard Oil company of its new "blue" gasoline, selling at 9.6 cents per gallon, is to be followed soon by other large companies either with price readjustments or with the introduction of a new type of lower priced gasoline, according to officials of those firms here.

Gas company officials here said the introduction of lower priced gasoline is the direct result of price cutting activities on the part of some independent dealers, who advertise they are selling "direct from tank cars". H. A. DeBauer, local manager of the Winona Oil company, a subsidiary of the Cities Service company, said that several of these independent price cutting stations are operating at Neenah.

The Winona company has officially announced, Mr. DeBauer said, that it will introduce in the near future a new type of low test gasoline, to sell at 9.6 cents per gallon, a reduction of two cents per gallon under the present price of low test gas. Local officials of the Standard Oil company said the new "blue" gas was introduced "as a new product to meet the public demand for a lower priced gasoline." He said that the gas also was designed to meet price-cutting competition. The new Standard "blue" gas has a gravity test of from 58 to 61, while the present low test Standard gas tests from 60 to 62. Officials of the Wadham Oil company here said that the heads of their firm are meeting in Milwaukee this week to consider future plans. Either a new type of gasoline will be introduced or the price on the present low test gas will be readjusted, they reported.

CHEESE FACTORY IS LOOTED BY BURGLARS

Thieves broke into the Bringhamton Cheese factory, town of Ellington, after 11 o'clock Saturday night and stole between $7 and $8 in cash from the cash drawer. Entrance was gained by breaking a window. Sheriff John Lappen is investigating.

Vandals, last weekend smashed all the basement windows in the Brookside rural school, town of Ellington, according to a report received by Sheriff Lappen. The sheriff has a clue to the marauders and is investigating. This is the third time in the last year that this school has been raided by vandals. Last Halloween they tipped over an out-house at the school and wrecked it. Several months ago they shot through several windows.

HOLD NAME SOCIETY COMMITTEE TO MEET

The committees in charge of arrangements for the diocesan Holy Name society rally here on May 31 will meet Tuesday evening at St. Joseph monastery. Gustave Keller, Sr., is general chairman. The rally is expected to attract approximately 20,000 visitors to the city, including the 10,000 Holy name society members, who will march in the parade. An open air mass will be celebrated in the morning at Pierce park, with a special Appleton choir of 160 voices singing accompaniment. This choir is to be made up of voices from the four Appleton congregations, St. Joseph, St. Mary, St. Theresa and Sacred Heart. Prof. A. J. Theiss will be the conductor.

FINISH IMPROVEMENT ON ELLINGTON ROADS

Workers last week completed improving a mile of town road in the town of Ellington, between Grand View school and Breilick's corner. The road was widened, gravelled and ditches were deepened. The workers, under direction of town foremen, are now planning the same improvements for other roads in the town.

BEARS PREDICT LOWER PRICES ON WALL STREET

View Founded on Action of Market, Outside Developments

BY GEORGE T. HUGHES
Copyright, 1931, By Cons. Press
Wall Street, New York—(CPA)—

More confident than ever, the bear party in Wall Street was predicting lower prices for stocks as the week closed. The greatest concession they were willing to make was that there might be a technical rally after the violent break of Friday afternoon. For the longer outlook they were still pessimistic.

In part, this view was founded on the action of the market itself and on the success that has attended operations for the decline all week. In part, however, it is the emphasis placed on certain tangible developments on the outside. The fact that there has been no check to the decline in commodity prices has increased the doubt in trading circles as to whether quotations for stock have yet adjusted themselves to the situation. The signs of business improvement have been too faint and too scattered to make any impression.

Many Bonds Liquidated

One of the reasons for misgiving not confined to the short interest is the action of the bond market, particularly in regard to railway obligations. Liquidation of holdings of every grade below the very best has been in evidence all week. The argument is that if investors will not take fixed interest rate obligations of solvent railroads, they cannot be expected to buy stocks.

The March railroad earnings statements, which will begin to come in quantity the first of this week, are awaited with intense interest. Should there be any improvement of importance over February results it might help sentiment, but the improvement must be substantial. Of dividend meetings to come the one awaited most anxiously is that of the Illinois Central, a railroad that has suffered heavy loss of traffic in recent months to competitive forms of transportation and one that serves the territory most affected by last year's drought.

Conjecture also concerns itself with the meeting of the U. S. Steel directors for dividend action on April 28. Judging by the action of the stock, the Street is none too certain that the rate will be maintained, although opinion outside of speculative circles is that there will be no change at this time. The drop of U. S. Steel stock to a new low for the bear market has increased the uneasiness.

Oil Trade Slow

Still another situation with an unfavorable aspect pertains to the oil trade. Prices continue to decline and there has been no effective check to overproduction. Atlantic refining made a poor report for the first quarter, suggesting a similar condition with other oil companies. Standard oil of New Jersey has still to make public its 1930 report and —Harwood Photo.

Edward Thies

In the six years that Edward Thies has traveled the highway in his daily 49 mile trip to deliver 1300 Post-Crescents in communities from Greenville to Marion, he has missed very, very few deliveries. These few misses caused by raging winter blizzards and snow-clogged roads, have offered plenty of adventure in Ed's endeavor to take the papers through in spite of the difficulties.

In the last snow storm that struck this section of the country in the last week in March, some of the papers were sent out by train and the rest of them were delivered by Mr. Thies the following morning. This was the only trip Ed had missed in two years. Three years ago papers were all sent by train for nearly a week because the roads were impassable.

Mr. Thies vividly remembers a trip in 1923 that included the use of car, cutter and train, to make a big snowstorm. He was marooned in Hortonville. Commandeering a farmer's cutter, he piled the remaining bundles of papers into the sleigh and drove into New London, where he caught the train to Clintonville, delivering his bundles along the route.

Mr. Thies starts out from the Post-Crescent plant every afternoon at 4 o'clock and follows the route through Greenville, Hortonville, New London, Sugar Bush, Bear Creek, Clintonville to Marion. He leaves his papers at the Post-Crescent stations, where newsboys pick them up for house to house delivery. He has charge of the five carriers in Clintonville, where he lives and from where he drives to Appleton every day for the papers.

Mr. Thies was a railroad man for 14 years and was formerly a locomotive fireman with the Chicago, Northwestern railroad in the Ashland division. He started in railroad work in 1916 and after firing for four years, he was promoted to engineer in 1920. It was while he was on a morning railroad run that he began working for the Post-Crescent. For a year he went to New London from Clintonville and met the 5 o'clock bus from Appleton, which carried the papers. For the last five years he has been coming to the Post-Crescent plant to gather all the papers for truck delivery. Within the last few weeks Marion has been added to his route.

Mr. Thies was born on a farm in Shawano county and attended Shawano county schools. He and Mrs. Thies have lived in Clintonville for the last seven years in their own home. The three children, Eugene, 11, Lorraine, 9, and Wesley, 7, are students in the Clintonville public school.

The whole family enjoys swimming and goes to the Clover Leaf lakes nearly every day for a swim. Mr. Thies taught his children how to swim. Hunting and fishing are his greatest sports, although he has never gone deer hunting in his life. He prefers going after birds and rabbits.

although that will not cover developments of the last three months, it will be scanned closely for an authoritative opinion on the outlook for this much harassed industry.

On the hopeful side there is only to be said that the downward readjustment has been orderly and that the end of the period of decline is another week nearer. It is also encouraging to note that when a corporation is able to show increased earnings over a year ago, the market is quick to reflect the good news.

MARVELS IN WORLD'S NEWS-GATHERING ARE DESCRIBED BY NOYES

President of Associated Press Points to Progress in Science

New York—(AP)—Daily wonders performed in gathering the world's news were touched upon today in an address by Frank E. Noyes, president of the Associated Press. He spoke at the annual luncheon of the organization.

Mr. Noyes, who is publisher of the Washington Star, introduced the guest speaker, Walter S. Gifford, president of the American Telephone and Telegraph company.

After dwelling upon "the tremendous progress in the science of the telegraph and telephone wire," he praised Mr. Gifford's leadership in a development which has "approached the marvelous."

He also had high commendation for the staff of the Associated press. "I feel," he said, "that I can never speak of our organization without paying a fresh tribute to our superlative working staff, under the leadership of Kent Cooper, a real genius which daily performs new miracles in the extraordinary excellence of the report delivered to us."

The customary toast to the health of the president of the United States and the first lady of the land was proposed by Mr. Noyes. This is the only toast offered at Associated Press annual luncheons.

After describing the Associated Press as "simply a reporter of its individual members, raised to the Nth power," the speaker said its 1928 members newspapers demanded a true report of the world's happenings "undefiled by bias or partisanship."

Get Impartial News

"So far as we are concerned," he said, "we believe that this organization of ours, supervised by a board of directors made up of practical newspapermen from all parts of the country, selected by the vote of the membership at large, and owned by 1,300 newspapers of every possible shade of political religious and economic viewpoint, gives us the sort of report we demand."

The membership of the Associated Press, Mr. Noyes said, is the largest in history. He added that "we by no means reckon our growth by simple additions to our membership but rather by the far more important yardstick measuring the increase and improvement of service to our newspapers."

Prefacing his introduction of Mr. Gifford, he said "technical wonder workers" have brought wire communication to such a stage of development that "one pair of telephone wires can carry not only the telephone conversation for which it was designed, but simultaneously furnish 38 telegraph circuits, to say nothing of radio program transmission and telephotograph circuits."

"A number of great men," he said, "have taken part in the creation and development of what is now the American Telephone and Telegraph company, this giant among industrial corporations. Theodore Vail was one of these men and Walter S. Gifford, his successor, is another."

Don't Worry When Girl Is Like Tomboy

BY ANGELO PATRI

"I've come in to see you about Betty."

"Nothing wrong, I hope? Betty seems to be getting along very well. She looks well and her work is exceptionally good lately."

"I'm glad to hear it, I'm sure. I'm terribly worried about her. I'd hate to have my girl turn out to be a tomboy with no manners, no respect for herself. I've done my best to teach her to be a lady."

"What's the matter?"

"Well, to come to the point, it's this: She slipped Dick Curly in the face in class yesterday and her teacher gave her a bad mark for it."

"Well, that was nothing extraordinary. She ought to get a bad mark for that. She ought to have that for the playground."

"Why should she slap him at all? Is that the way for a lady to behave? I'm disgraced."

"It's no way for a lady to behave but it is quite all right for a girl like Betty. She is a little girl getting ready to be a bigger one. It was quite on the cards that she slap Dick. If we had any choice about the matter we might have selected a more fitting place, but maybe the occasion settled the place. Anyway, there is nothing to worry about."

"Oh, but I don't agree with you."

"Then maybe you will agree to this. Up to now Betty has been a little girl playing with little girls. She is entering adolescence. It is now high time for her to transfer her regard from other little girls, from her girl chum, to boys, and a boy chum."

"I hope not."

"Then you hope wrong. Normal boys and girls transfer their interest from those of their own sex to those of the other sex soon after entering adolescence. Some earlier, some later, than others, but all of them should do so, if they are to be normally happy people. When Betty was in the grade school she had a preference for Dick. That was the beginning of a beautiful friendship. The less attention you pay to it the better. The teacher had to give them each a bad mark because such demonstrations interrupt the calm of the classroom. But after that there is nothing more to be said that we wish them both a long and happy comradeship."

"It's simply dreadful to contemplate all this. Betty, my baby, having a beau, and all the rest. Oh, dear. It's just one thing after the other from messes to mumps, from mumps to lovers. I suppose I'll have to put up with it."

"All you can do is to teach Betty the meaning of her new growth. Help her to understand herself a bit and guide her along the road to health. Health of body and health of mind. Do let her feel that it is perfectly all right to have a boy friend. Take him as a matter of course as you took the girl friend. Be as natural and they'll be normal."

The adjustment from childish companionship to that of adolescent friendships is a nice one and not as easily made always as it might be. It is worth studying a little if you have adolescent children.

Mr. Patri will give personal attention to inquiries from parents and school teachers on the care and development of children. Write him in care of this paper, inclosing stamped, addressed envelope for reply.

MAKE TRAVEL KIT YOURSELF AND EQUIP IT

BY ALICIA HART

It is a simple thing to take beauty traveling with you, if you make the proper arrangements.

Most beauty houses get out little flat, round or uniquely shaped travel packages that contain nonspill and non-leak bottles and jars. These come in everything from pasteboard, in gay modern colors and designs, to sleek suedes and satins.

There usually is a real objection to these week-end or vacation kits, or whatever the firms call their special kind. This objection is that they may include a lot of things you don't want and not enough of what you do.

Therefore, there are now available in luggage shops the most adorable fitted beauty cases for travel. The jars, bottles and whatnots come empty and you fill your own, right from your supply on your dressing table.

Of course, these cost money! But if you are a canny soul, and know you are going traveling this summer, now is the time to plan a travel beauty kit that won't break you and that will give you exactly what you want.

Make it yourself, in the first place, if you don't want the expense of buying a case. Make it of rubberized silk, or of linen, over cardboard, to give it body. You can make the kind that rolls up, just various sized pockets in it, something like a shoe bag, to carry the different amounts of lotion and hair tonic and creams you want.

Then fit it out. You probably know by now about the sample sizes of many first rate products carried in ten cent stores. Tooth paste, vanishing creams, cold cream, hand lotion, powder base, mouth wash, astrigent—all these for a fortnight trip.

If it is for a longer time, look over the screw top containers in new crystal that many department stores are carrying, and fill them yourself.

In the long run, this is usually a more satisfactory procedure.

The signs denote that material success awaits you. This success, when it comes, will lack the comforting accompaniment of well-wishers. You are, in later life, destined to travel extensively, and under this mellowing influence, your outlook will change, and spontaneously and naturally will gradually wear away reserve and coldness.

Your home life does not hold out much promise of happiness during its early years. Later on, however, you will learn to appreciate, in thought, word and action, the affection and devotion of your family, and happiness will prevail.

WE WOMEN

By Virginia Vane

UNLUCKY MOLLY: You've just allowed yourself to be bulldozed by the sound of too many wedding bells. Because your friends have been stepping off rather rapidly of late, you're in a blue funk. You think you're sure to be left on the shelf although you're still in your teens and there is no particular reason to believe that your life is ended yet as far as happiness goes.

As a result of this paralyzing fright you're fixing with a speculative eye, a certain youth who is neither old enough, nor ardent enough nor wealthy enough to marry anyone. When your common-sense asserts itself, you are inclined to wonder whether you're not foolish to pin too much hope on this uncertain candidate, but most of the time you're so desperately anxious to get married that you forget to use your common-sense.

Probably you're registering such painful anxiety about this time that you're calculating to marry any boy who is young, carefree and completely without matrimonial intentions. Consequently if you don't look sharp you'll lose his friendship and feel yourself more neglected than ever.

Don't for one minute think that because all your friends are marrying you are in duty bound to follow their example. You may wait four or five years before you find the right man and in the meantime if you haven't the right point of view you can make yourself a positive misanthrope. If you're going to worry and fuss and cast envious glances every minute at your married sisters, you won't improve your personality or your disposition.

There are a lot of good times ahead of you yet. There are a great many people to be met. There are any number of experiences you may go through before you're ready for marriage. This business of matrimony doesn't hit us all at the same age. And very often the ones who wait longest for it, make the best job of it when it comes along.

To you and to all the other worried girls who feel they must get married because it's being done this season, I say "Wait and stop worrying, and don't rush into the wrong sort of marriage, merely in order to sport a wedding ring, have a new home and show the rest of the girls that you're just as clever as they are."

WAITING: In spite of the fact that you say you're definitely in love I should say you'd be very

"Georgia Moon" Unknown Composition In Georgia

Atlanta—(AP)—"Georgia Moon" may be a song hit in New York, but in Georgia it is an unknown composition.

When it was decided that it would be the ideal signature song for Bobby Jones' radio golf talk, no one in all Georgia could be found who knew the piece.

Curt Peterson, NEC announcer, and Clifford H. Glick of the program staff had arrived in Atlanta one morning to arrange for the song to go on with Bobby that night.

"Play 'Georgia Moon,'" Glick directed the pianist at WSB studio.

"'Georgia Moon,'" the musician repeated. "Never heard of it!"

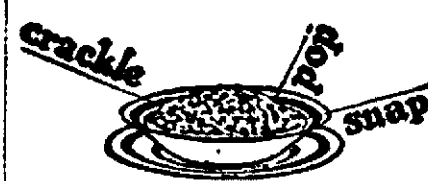

Peterson telephoned to musicians all over Georgia. Not one knew of the composition. Then he called the New York studio. Even while he was telephoning Perry Bechtel, banjoist, walked into the studio.

Peterson had an idea.

"Listen," he said to Keith McLeod, of the NEC musical staff, who was at the other end of the line, "have some one play that piece now. Perry Bechtel will listen in and pick it up."

Bechtel listened to "Georgia Moon" for the first time in his life as it was played in the New York studio, then transcribed the notes on paper.

That was how "Georgia Moon" was imported to Georgia.

Yes, it's different!

The fire engine screamed down the street to the address given on the note. There, instead of a fire, they found a baby had been born. The note was intended for the nurse, and not the captain.

MY NEIGHBOR Says —

When making pie dough, make an extra amount and store it in the ice box in a covered bowl. Tarts or turnovers can be made quickly with left over bits of fruits, jellies or jams.

To make putty stick to window panes, use a small quantity of white lead; mix thoroughly with the putty.

You probably will not believe it until you have tried it, but the usual egg sauce served with fish can be made a new and interesting dish by adding some sliced blanched almonds and some white malaga grapes to it.

To clean oil paintings cut a raw potato in half and rub over painting. This will make it like new.

Your Birthday

"TAURUS"

If April 21st is your birthday, the best hours for you on this date are from 10 a. m. to 11:30 a. m., from 3 p. m. to 5 p. m. and from 8 p. m. to 9:30 p. m. The danger periods are from 12:10 p. m. to 1:50 p. m. and from 6 p. m. to 7:45 p. m.

Although April 21st is, from an astrological viewpoint, good for new ideas, and fresh interests, the mind will not be as acute and efficient than usual. Opportunities will present themselves, and success or failure depends entirely on their reception. A charge, affecting business interests, is fore-shadowed.

Children born on this April 21st will possess great ability and natural aptitude. They will be heavy readers, industrious students, and intelligent workers. They will be shrewd, careful, and take very few false steps. They are made for success, and, in addition, their dispositions will control happiness.

Born on April 21st, you have a very peculiar temperament, a deep nature, and hard to comprehend.

Be alert and cautious.

CITY COUNCIL BACKS FIELD FOR ATHLETICS

Approves Completion of Project in Rear of School Building

Neenah—Establishment of an all-year round athletic field and playground on the property at the rear of the new high school building, owned by the city council Saturday night. Use of the property back of the school was granted by the Kiwanis club and citizens, while an tract there recently was given to the city by S. F. Shattuck.

A deed of the property was presented by Mr. Shattuck, accompanied by a communication and request that the work be started this year and continue to completion. The council recently appropriated $5,000 for the initial work. Four new tennis courts will be built, and shrubbery will be planted. The plans call for hard and softball diamonds, running track, football field and possibly bleachers, an ice skating rink, hockey rink, horseshoe pits and equipment for other sports. The entire field of 20 acres is to be enclosed by an ornamental fence. It is estimated the entire cost will be approximately $30,000.

Alderman Robert Martens again brought up the matter of Neenah's tennis courts. He stated that Neenah is going to have another tennis court, but Alderman Freeman asked how a new tennis court could exist when the present one could not operate successfully. Alderman Martens replied that the grade of pictures shown here discouraged attendance.

John O'Leary, city attorney, asked for more time to make preparations for opening Stevens. Proper surveys of the land through which the street would pass have not been completed, but will be made next week. Before a resolution condemning property for extension of the street has been drawn, the result of the surveys should be available, he pointed out.

To Work With Board L. H. Freeman, alderman from the First ward, was appointed by Mayor George E. Sande at the council representative to work with the board of health in securing data from other cities on garbage collection. A report is expected at the next council meeting.

The city will conduct its annual collection of garbage placed on curbs Tuesday and Wednesday, it was reported. Relative to dumping the garbage collected in the Third and Fifth wards behind the recently constructed retaining wall between Theda Clark hospital and the Chicago-Northwestern railway right of way, in order to fill up the large space which the city contemplates using for a playground, it was the sense of the meeting to dump all such material in the city dump, and not preferable. The work will be in charge of the street commissioner.

More time was asked for action on the application of M. Maufat for a license to operate a soft drink parlor at 314 N. Commercial, and the application of Waupaca parties to operate a roller skating rink at S. A. Cook armory.

An option on the Volkman property at the intersection of Smith, Isabella and March streets, has been secured, the purchase price placed at $10,000. The city voted to accept and sell the buildings to the highest bidder. The property was purchased in order to straighten out a bend in the road. The committee on walks reported favorably toward constructing a walk on Briant. The committee on finances reported favorably on 209 bills totaling $9,413.31, which were authorized to be paid.

Adjournment was taken to Tuesday evening, April 21, when the new council will be seated, committees appointed by the mayor, and the new council begin its program of work.

PROBE DEATH OF BARBER AT LAKE RESORT

County Authorities Investigate Fatal Injury of John Spoilske

Menasha—Winnebago county authorities are investigating the death of John Spoilske, Menasha, a barber who suffered a skull fracture at a Springbrook resort, about six miles from Oshkosh, late Sunday afternoon. Authorities were told that Spoilske fell from the porch of the resort. An inquest will be held at the county court house at 2 o'clock Tuesday afternoon.

Joseph Multz, 27, Milwaukee, and Jesse Brace, 40, Oshkosh, companions of Spoilske, were arraigned in court at Oshkosh Monday morning and following a plea of guilty to a charge of vagrancy under the state law, each was sentenced to 90 days in the county jail.

The sheriff's department was called about 4 o'clock Sunday afternoon by Adolph Drews, said to be proprietor of the resort, who indicated that three strangers were at the cottage. Spoilske's fall apparently occurred after the call was received. Sheriff Nelson asked, and the man was dead when officers arrived.

Adolph Drews, Otto Schumacher, Edward Schumacher and Max Rutz, all of Oshkosh, were at the resort Sunday, but did not witness Spoilske's fall, authorities were told. Both Multz and Brace claimed the fall was accidental.

The coroner's jury met at 1:30 Monday afternoon. Spoilske, 40, who was born in Menasha, had been a resident of the city nearly all his life. He is survived by three brothers, Benjamin, Frank, and Harry, all of Menasha; three sisters, Sister Annyola of Denver, Col., Mrs. Ben Konetzke and Mrs. Edward Konetzke both of Menasha. Funeral services will be held at St. John's Catholic church at 9 o'clock Wednesday morning. The Rev. W. B. Polaczky officiating. Interment will be in St. John's cemetery.

"WELCOME" FLAGS TO GREET ALL VISITORS

Neenah—A continuous line of "welcome" flags between Neenah and Menasha, and Racine and Third-st. Menasha will greet all visitors at the several conventions to be held during the summer in Twin Cities. On Saturday, Menasha merchants adopted the "Welcome to Menasha" flag, which has been used for the past few years by Neenah, as its standard street decorating scheme. The Menasha flags will be blue with white lettering, while those at Neenah are red with white lettering. A committee composed of Hugh Gear and William Hahn, of the Neenah-Menasha association, completed Menasha plans Saturday by disposing of 150 flags, while Edward Meyer and E. G. Ziebel completed Neenah's arrangements by disposing of about 50 flags to Neenah people who heretofore were without them.

The idea is to have the cities well dressed to greet their visitors. The first event at which the flags will be displayed will be Saturday for the meeting of the Catholic Daughters of America at Menasha. Future meetings are the Congregational Ministers' conference on April 27, the district Rotary conference on April 4 and 5, and the state high school band convention at Menasha later in May. While the band convention is purely a Menasha affair, Neenah will assist by decorating and assisting in housing some of the children.

KIWANISANS TO REVIEW PARK PROGRAM IN CITY

Neenah—City parks will be the subject for discussion Wednesday noon at the weekly meeting of Kiwanis club at the Valley Inn. The meeting will be in charge of the public affairs committee, of which T. Gilbert is chairman. The subject is timely inasmuch as the season for using the parks is starting and the playground programs will be started within the next few weeks. Neenah expends annually about $10,000 for operation and maintenance of its parks, playgrounds, bath house and ice rinks. This year some $2,000 will be spent for new playground equipment. In addition to this a donation has just been made of 10 acres of land at the rear of the high school which is to be converted into an athletic field during the present year at a cost of approximately $30,000. Arrangements will be made by Kiwanis to assist in these projects.

HUNT FOR SLAYER OF SAN DIEGO GIRL

Body Found Hanging to Tree—Police Work on Two Slender Clews

San Diego, Calif.—(AP)—The death of 17-year-old Louise Teuber and the lack of clues in the slaying, who apparently strangled her and then hanged her body to a tree, puzzled police here today.

The body was found by a picnic party yesterday dangling from a high limb of an oak tree in the eastern fringe of the city. Her feet scraped the ground. Police surgeons said the girl had been dead eight hours.

San Teuber was a clerk in a five and ten cent store and the daughter of William Teuber, barber shop proprietor. She lived with her mother and grandmother. Girls who were her friends at the store said she gave up her job Saturday night and told them she was going away, but refused to say where.

At the scene of the tragedy police gathered two slim clews. One was the double half hitch knot which bound the rope about the girl's neck. The other was an army blanket found with the girl's clothes, purse and a package containing a pair of hose she had purchased Saturday.

The knot, police said, apparently had been tied by someone familiar with handling rope.

Investigators said there was every evidence that the girl had been dead before the long rope was thrown over the limb and pulled to a stump 30 feet away to be tied. The fact the body had not been lifted from the ground, was significant, they said.

Robbery Halts Honeymoon Of Mary McCormic, Prince

STARTS SHOOTING WHEN GIRL REFUSES TO MEND TROUSERS

Santa Monica, Calif.—(AP)—Another honeymoon may be added by Prince Serge Mdivani and Mary McCormic, opera star, to the one they interrupted after their secret marriage to assist police in tracking robbers who rifled their home of $12,000 worth of furs and rugs.

The prince, a Georgian nobleman and until recently the husband of Pola Negri, film star, said today he and his bride might tour the European capitals as soon as arrangements could be made for a longer absence.

The diva said she married Prince Serge ten days ago, but neither she nor her husband disclosed where the ceremony was performed. They said upon their return here Saturday night that they had taken an "automobile honeymoon tour" through three western states. The prince added that they had planned to be married at Las Vegas, Nev., when they slipped away from the home of Prince David Mdivani and Mase Murray, Serge's brother and sister-in-law, but that they met newspapermen who knew them and "kept going."

The secret marriage culminated a long romance. After the prince and Miss Negri first quarreled in 1929 at the film actresses' chateau in France, Miss McCormic greeted him warmly upon his return to the United States. When it became known that Miss Negri was seeking a divorce in Paris, both Prince Serge and Miss McCormic admitted they were engaged.

When the actress obtained her divorce early this month, Miss McCormic motored west from Chicago to join the prince and await an opportune moment for the wedding, which she insisted on the start should be "strictly private."

Miss Negri is en route to Hollywood, where she plans to resume her motion picture career.

Strikeouts Feature Weekend Ball Games In Major Leagues

GEHRIG HOMERS BUT YANKEES LOSE TO MACKS

Bruins Turn Back Cards 4 and 1; Robins Lose Fifth Straight

BY HUGH S. FULLERTON, JR.
Associated Press Sports Writer
If major league pitchers can continue their performances of the season's first few games, some of the strikeout records may be in serious danger. Whether it is the changed ball or a mere epidemic or poor batting eyes, fanning this year seems to occur more often than in previous seasons when slugging was the rage.

Seven hurlers in the two major leagues struck out five or more rivals in yesterday's eight games and in many cases that was not enough to win or even keep the pitcher on the mound for nine innings. Big Fred Fitzsimmons of the New York Giants led the way, fanning seven of the Boston Braves as his team won 9 to 2. Fitz limited the Braves to six hits in giving them their first defeat of the season while the Giants got 14 blows to go into a three-way tie for the league lead.

Sox Beat Browns
In a long drawn out game which saw the Chicago White Sox whip the St. Louis Browns 12 to 6, 14 men struck out. Sam Gray, one of four St. Louis pitchers, and credited with the loss, and Garland Braxton of Chicago each whiffed five.

With a near record crowd of 80,000 looking on, Rube Walberg of Philadelphia, beat Charlie Glines of the New York Yankees 3 to 2, in a pitching and fanning duel. Walberg struck out six and allowed the same number of hits. Ruffing fanned five while giving seven hits.

Root, Kremer Whiff Six
Charley Root of the Chicago Cubs and Remy Kremer of Pittsburgh also were credited with six strikeouts apiece. Root was wild at the start but good control held him in turning back the St. Louis Cardinals, 4 to 1. It was the first defeat for the Cards, putting them level with the Braves and Giants. Weak base running by the Reds rendered Kremer's six walks harmless to Pittsburgh as the Pirates won, 5 to 1. Cincinnati had 14 men left on base.

Good Pitching Also Counts to the fore in the other American league games, bringing victories to Washington and Detroit. Lloyd Brown's mound work helped the Senators take the lead by shutting out the Boston Red Sox 8-0. Earl Whitehill turned back Cleveland with seven hits, stopping all of the Indians but Van Joe Vosmik to win, 7 to 2.

Van Joe Vosmik brought in both Cleveland runs and with a single left him with a batting average of .667 for five games.

Philadelphia's two Ellitts combined to hold Brooklyn to seven blows in the remaining National league game and hand the Robins their fifth straight defeat, 6 to 4, in ten innings. Homers by O'Doul and Herman were the leading Brooklyn blows.

BIG TEN WAR WITH NORTH CENTRAL ENDS
Will Name Sub-committees to Discuss Mutual Athletic Problems
Chicago — (P) — Without having produced open warfare the strike between the Western conference and the North Central Association of Colleges and Secondary Schools, has reached the peace conference stage. Investigation into the Athletic policies of institutions in Illinois, Ohio and Minnesota by the North Central group during the past year threatened to bring a break between the two organizations with Northwestern university as the storm center. Believing that Big Ten schools could handle their own athletic problems, Dr. Walter Dill Scott, president of Northwestern, asked conference leaders to confer and decide if the North Central should be permitted to continue its investigations. At the meeting, held in Chicago Saturday, it was decided to appoint a sub-committee of three Western conference university presidents to confer with representatives of the North Central to discuss their mutual interests. It was indicated that the conference will be held soon and that there will be no further trouble.

MERCHANTS WALLOP PURE MILK COMPANY

Central Wisconsin League Finds Independents Easy Victim
Appleton Merchants of the Central Wisconsin league opened the spring training season Sunday by beating the Appleton Pure Milk company, 11 and 1 in a ragged game on Wilson school diamond. The Merchant pitching during the afternoon's session was favorable but the work in the field hardly impressive, probably due to the high wind that swept the grounds.
Schroeder, the Merchants' new shortstop, was the fielding star of the game. He showed well scooping up grounders and at the bat. The youngster is a former legion junior. Kuehn again performed well at first base, Manager Bedford at second and King at third. Eddie Helms and N. Pope were on the receiving end of the battery.
In the outfield M. Helms, Gehrman, R. Tornow and P. Bauman worked. They turned in several sensational catches and made but one error.
Next Sunday the Merchants will play the Noffke Fuels or the Winnebago-co league.

80,000 See Athletics Beat Yanks

New York, — (P) — The New York Yankees apparently are bent on setting a new attendance record for major league baseball this season. They've played five games so far and drawn an aggregate attendance of 300,000. Yesterday 80,000 jammed the Yankee stadium to watch Philadelphia trip Joe McCarthy's men, 3-2. The only larger crowd came to the Stadium in September, 1928, when 85,265 saw the Yankees beat the A's twice in a Sunday double-header.

Knights of Columbus bowlers will roll the last league bowling games tonight on Elk alleys. Little change in leaders is expected, the Clarke team being far out in front in standings. Next Monday, April 27, the K. C. will hold their annual bowling banquet and award season's prizes.

VIKING GRIDDERS END SPRING DRILLS

Turnout and Attitude During Week Indicates Poor Team in Fall
Spring football practice for Lawrence college grid squad closed Saturday afternoon with about 15 boys attending. The afternoon's drill consisted of a review of fundamentals and a little dummy scrimmage. Coach Percy Clapp, mentor, conducted the workout and has returned to Milwaukee until next fall.
Although the new Lawrence coach failed to comment when activities ceased Saturday his visit here during the week was just enough to acquaint him with the fact that Lawrence will not have a football team next fall. While spring drills mean little or nothing the turnout last week would indicate that as far as the present crop of Vikings is concerned only 10 or 12 care anything about the grid game and the rest either have a pet peeve against someone or have found the game not at all to their liking.

PAPERMAKERS BEAT NOFFKE FUELS IN PRACTICE BATTLE

Hammen, Hurling for Appleton Club, Turns in Fine Exhibition
KIMBERLY — The Papermakers and Noffke Fuels met in a practice battle yesterday. With the high wind taking all the high hit balls toward the right and the air turning colder the Kimberly pitchers did not work hard. The wind had the Appleton fielders on needles and pins and a number of easy outs were missed and went for doubles. Hammen a young twirler from Little Chute, pitching for the Fuels proved to be very good. Hammen pitched the first six frames for the Fuels and struck out ten men. His curve ball was working good and he had good control.

The Kimberly stickers were led by Joe Gossens, who connected with two triples and a single. Jerry Powell drove one over the right field wall for a home run and netted a single.
Both teams failed to score in the first inning although the Fuels placed men on the bases. In the second frame Kroels singled and advanced to third when C. Noffke hit a double. Both runs came in when Gossens missed a ground ball at short.
The Kimberly aggregation went on a rampage in its half of the second when Poca the first man up walked. Then Gossens tripled and scored when Harties' long fly to center was missed. Vanderloop hit to short and Ellis juggled it and threw to first too late to get the man. Verstege the next man up tripled and came home with the fifth score on a wild pitch. Then Hammen pitched real ball up to the Papermakers scoreless.

He was relieved by Buss who couldn't find the plate and before he had retired the side the Papermakers had tallied three runs. In the seventh both teams failed to score. In the eighth the Papermakers ran in three more runs to conclude the scoring for the day. Poca who had relieved Vanderloop on the mound in the fifth inning had been tossing the Fuels nothing but slow balls because of the cold.

BANKERS, PRINTERS PLAN SOFTBALL GAME

The Banker and Printer softball teams of the National league will meet in a practice game at 5:30 Tuesday evening at Pierce park. Eddie Sternard who has joined the Bankers as playing manager had 15 of his charges working out last week and believes the team is rapidly rounding into shape for the opening of the league next month.

Chaff'n Chatter

By Gordon R. McIntyre
The Tip is Free
If the present arrangements for a fight May 15 between Tommy Loughran and Victorio Campolo are consummated, on May 16 you are going to pick up a newspaper and read the following headline: "LOUGHRAN'S LEFT LICKS CAMPOLLO." Of course, if Signor Campolo really wants to hit Mr. Loughran, he should go buy himself a bean blower and ambush Thomas on his way home some dark night.

The Sharkey Program
James J. Johnston, who is now promoting at Ebbets Field, Brooklyn, says he has Jack Sharkey lined up for four bouts. The four men in the other named are Carnert, Mickey Walker, Tommy Loughran and the winner of the Schmeling-Stripling affair. Mr. Johnston says these four bouts will take place in rapid succession—in June, July, August and September. The program sounds too smooth.

Dark Horses
There is a dark horse in each of the big leagues. Singularly each of these brunet steeds has an infield problem with which to tinker. In the American League the dark horse is the Indians. In the National, the shady quadruped is the Braves. Manager Peckinpah has been suffering troubles on the left side of the inner defense, and that's what Bill McKechnie is fretting about, too.
The Cleveland dark horse probably hasn't as good a chance to cop as the Boston error. In the other league, there is a five-club race in the National, it is generally agreed, and with that many clubs ripping and hacking at one another, the sixth place team hasn't far to go to get to the top. Sixth place in the National League isn't as far away from the top as fourth in the American. If the Senators and Athletics get going right, it won't be long until fourth is far, far away from first in that circuit.

WAUPACA HUMBLER FORDS IN PRACTICE TILT; SCORE 3 TO 1

Behr Gives One Hit in Four Innings; Stoffel Pounded Hard
APPLETON baseball club in the Fox River Valley league went over to Waupaca yesterday afternoon for a practice ball game and took a 3 and 1 trimming for their pains. The Waupaca team this year is entered in the Wolf River Valley league.

The Fords played a regular season game, some of the boys showing lack of practice, others poor form with the war club, and all of them playing as if they didn't care much whether school kept or not. Perhaps part of the enthusiasm for the ball game was lost in the huge clouds of dust that swept off the Waupaca diamond every so often and several times forced the boys to halt play until the sand storm was over.
Lefty Behr was the first selection of Manager Len Smith for hurling duties and he allowed one hit in four innings despite the fact he failed to bear down at any time during the period. Lefty fanned four batters.

In the fifth inning Clarence Stoffel went to the hill and the Waupaca team then coiled its runs, two in the first inning Stoffel toiled and one in the second. The youngster was in hot water all the time he worked. Dates Crow pitched the eighth inning and had to work hard to keep from being scored on when two of his mates erred and gave base runners life.

Brew Rookie Told
Jerry Davis of Wild Rose, a youthful hurler who served with Milwaukee's Brewers down at Hot Springs this spring worked for Waupaca and although he was touched for 10 safeties hurled mighty good ball. He fanned seven in the fourth and gave one walk. Comment by the Fords was that Jerry's greatest trouble was a tendency to make his tosses too good. The youngster has plenty of speed and will have a great season in the Wolf River league if he gets good support and tries the corners more often.

Appleton's lineup in the field showed Murphy catching, Eggert at first base and the veteran Sonny Tornow at second. Eddie Verbrick, a recruit, was at short and featured in the double play. Cully Schultz held down the hot corner at third base. In the outfield Arnie Hillman was at left field, Van Wyk in center and Crowe and Manager Smith in right.

Next Sunday afternoon Waupaca will come to Brandt park for a game. George Wegsberger is expected to work at short and several other new faces may get a trial. The game also is a practice tilt and being such Manager Smith has decided to give the fans the benefit of a bargain price of 25 cents per head. The Fords will practice this week on Tuesday and Thursday.

CANZONERI, BERG SHOW IN TITLE GO

Johnny Risko Battles King Levinsky at Boston Tomorrow
New York — (P) — Champions both, Tony Canzoneri of New York and Jack (Kid) Berg of England will clash at the Chicago stadium Friday night in a ten round bout in which both the lightweight and junior welterweight titles may be at stake.

Berg's junior welterweight crown is certain to go to the winner and Tony's 136-pound title also will be tossed into the ring in the event that Berg makes the class limit.
The British Hebrew, a tireless, aggressive fighter who smother his opponents with the steam of leather he tosses, probably will be a deciding favorite at ring-time. Campaigning alike against lightweights and "light" welterweights, Berg has been virtually unbeatable during the last two years. Although he fights usually at 135 pounds, the White-chapel whirlwind can make the lightweight limit of 136 pounds without weakening himself perceptibly.

Detroit and Boston have booked the only other bouts of national interest. At Detroit tonight, Johnny Peters, English bantamweight, tackles rough and ready Vidal Greco of Spain. A ten round bout between Johnny Risko, veteran Cleveland heavyweight, and King Levinsky, the Chicago herring bawler, tops Boston's card tomorrow night. Tod Morgan, of Los Angeles, former junior lightweight champion, was forced to cancel his bout with Cecil Payne, Louisville lightweight, scheduled for Los Angeles tomorrow night, due to a wrenched shoulder suffered while training.

LAWRENCE TRACKMEN HOLD TIME TRIALS

Lawrence college trackmen went through time and distance trials Saturday afternoon at George A. Whiting athletic field. The workout was under direction of Coach Arthur C. Denney.
Outdoor practice for the Vikes started early this month and thanks to the ideal weather the track and field stars are getting along nicely. During the last two weeks the Vikings have worked on form and occasionally raced against time.

Saturday afternoon Denney sent the boys on time trials and the results were pleasing. Field events also showed the thin clads to be coming along very well. The purpose of the time trials on Saturdays is to determine how much the boys have improved during the week.

BREWERS, ST. PAUL, LOUISVILLE LEADING IN ASSOCIATION RACE

Milwaukee Beats Toledo as Christensen, Shires and Kubek Hit

BY WILLIAM WEEKES
Associated Press Sports Writer
CHICAGO—(AP)—American association clubs today faced the final games of the second series of the season well grouped, with only two games separating first and last places.

At the top were St. Paul, Louisville and Milwaukee, with four victories and two defeats; Kansas City and Columbus had broken even in six games, while Minneapolis, Indianapolis and Toledo had won two out of a half-dozen.

Louisville and St. Paul, picked by the experts to fight it out for the 1931 title, were all square in their series today, the Colonels having evened it up yesterday by winning, 8 to 7, after dropping Saturday's engagements, 15 to 9. A home run by Bud Evers with the bases full and two out in the ninth gave the Colonels victory after Huck Betts had held them well in hand for eight innings. Betts had a 7-2 lead when the Colonels went to bat in the ninth, but was belted for six runs and the ball game.

Indians in 9 Run Rally
Indianapolis staged a nine-run rally in the eighth to defeat Minneapolis, 13 to 9, squaring their series. During the eighth inning uprising Emmet McCann, Indian first baseman, set some kind of a record by connecting for two triples while Montague chipped in with a double to keep the rally alive. Each club used four hurlers. Burwell started for the Indians, but was replaced successively by Holschouer, Hildebrand and Daney, while Benton, McCullough, Morgan and Henry served for the Millers.

Marvin Gudat, a pitcher playing in centerfield for the crippled Columbus club, got a home run in the seventh inning with a man on to boost the Red Birds to a 4 to 3 victory over Kansas City. The contest was a pitching duel between Percy Lee Jones and Ed Holley for seven innings, but both had to call for help. House and Thomas finished for Kansas City, while Archie Campbell won the victory for Columbus, although Jones received the official credit.

Jonnard Hurls Win
Pitcher Bubber Jonnard of Milwaukee, singled in the winning run as the Brewers defeated Toledo, 4 to 2. His drive in the eighth scored Kubek and gave Milwaukee its second straight victory in the series. Kookoo Christensen, Art Shires and Kubek headed the Brewer attack on Sergeant George Connally, and finally drove him to cover in the ninth.

MILWAUKEE BOWLERS MAY BREAK WITH ABC

Milwaukee—(AP)—The Milwaukee Bowling association was at odds today with the American Bowling Congress, and a break between the organization threatens, according to bowling fans.

At a special meeting yesterday, the local group voted unanimously in support of its officers, President Emil Andel and Vice Presidents Mike Dornut and Bill Grant. The vote was taken in disapproval of a recent action by the Congress suspending Grant and reprimanding the others. The action by the Congress followed a difference between Abe Langtry, ABC secretary, and the MBA officials.

Yesterday's Stars

Mule Haas, Athletics—His single in eighth scored Bishop with run that beat Yankees, 2-2.

Charley Root, Cubs—Held Cardinals to six hits, fanned six and beat them, 4-1.

Roy Spencer, Senators—Drove in four runs with triple and single against Red Sox.

Fred Fitzsimmons, Giants—Gave Braves only six hits and beat them easily, 9-2.

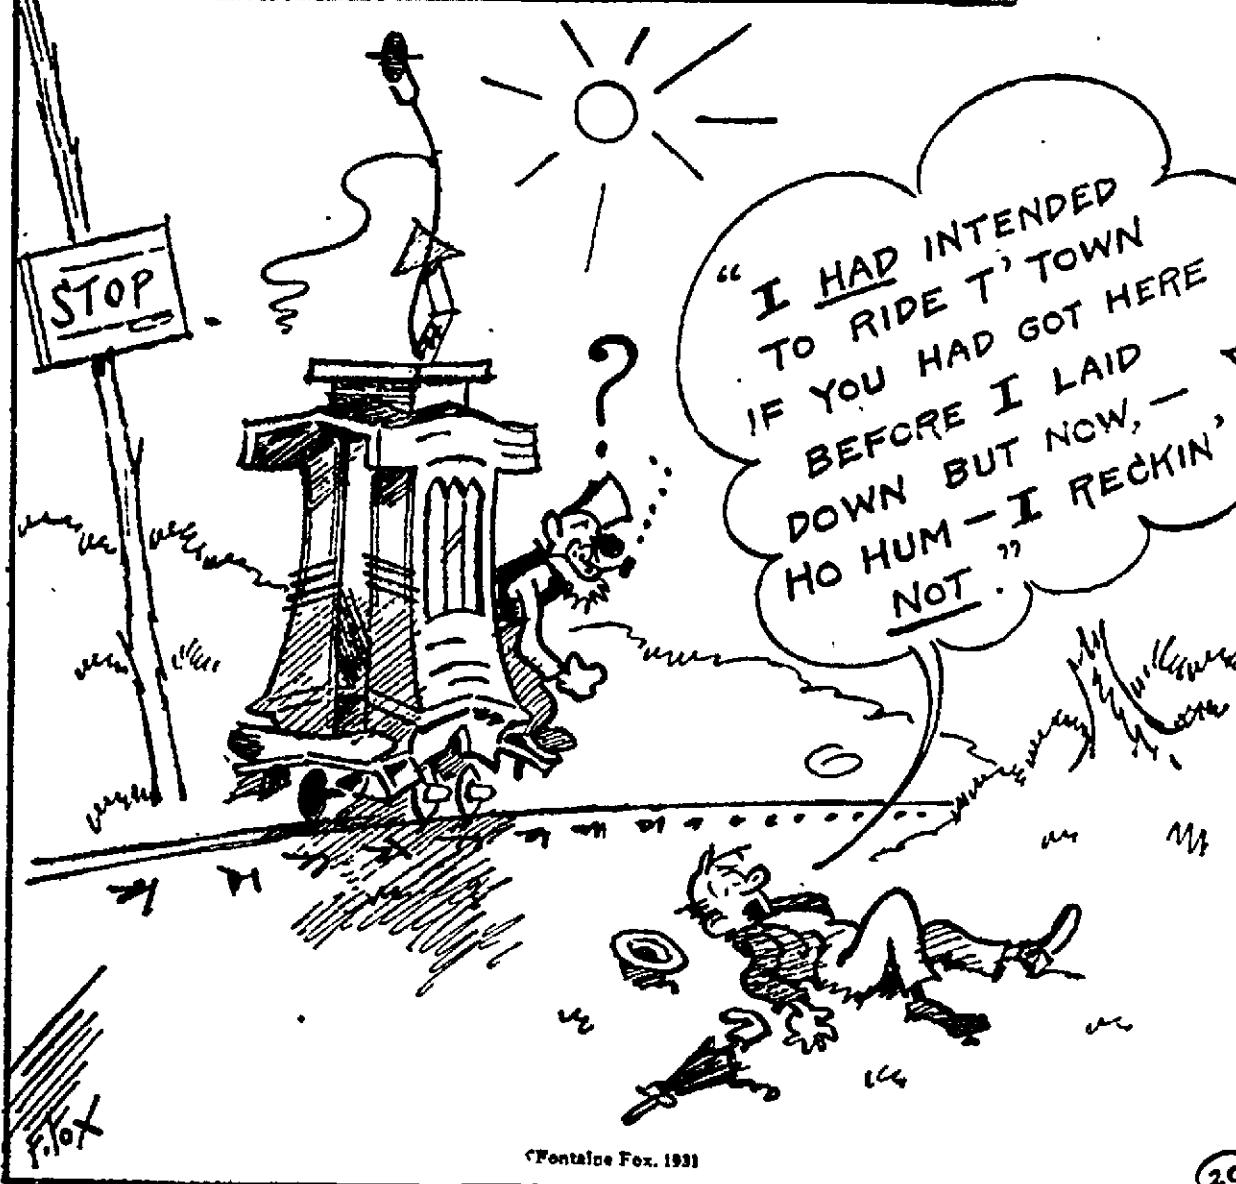

Harry McCurdy, Phillies—Pinch single in tenth drove in two runs and beat Robins, 6-4.

Earl Whitehill, Tigers—Stopped Indians with seven hits and beat them, 7-2.

DID YOU KNOW THAT—
THE last one hour of the 500-mile Indianapolis auto races is the only one that will be broadcast this year. . . . seems that the promoters want the radio listeners to come to the bowl and watch the speedsters. . . . Outstanding of the infield candidates in freshman baseball at Texas U. is Pat Ankenman of Houston. . . . The "roof garden" plan of spring football practice at Temple University has met with success. . . . the candidates have taken all their workouts in fundamentals atop Mitten Hall, 61 yards long and 50 yards wide. . . . a four-foot coping has kept the boys within the playing surface.

DE MAR EXPECTED TO WIN MARATHON JAUNT

Boston—(AP)—A field of 228 long distance runners toed the mark at Hopkinton at noon today for the start of the thirty-third annual Boston A. A. marathon.

The cream of North America's marathoners were prepared to battle their way along the 26-mile leg-wearying road that runs through the heartbeating Wellesley Hills.

It seemed that the battle for first place would center about Clarence de Mar of Keene, N. H., who makes his thirteenth trip over the course and attempts his eighth victory since 1911; Karl Y. Koski, Finnish-American A. C. of New York, who finished third last year; and Johnny Miles of Hamilton, Ont., who won in 1926 and 1929 and holds the record for the course.

Sports Question Box

Question—Runners are on first and second but the man on second stops between second base and third base and is caught in a rundown. The runner on first touched second and the fielder with the ball stepped on third-base. Both runners went back to their bases on which they stood when the play started. The umpire said the man who was on second had been forced out at third as soon as the other runner touched second.

Answer—The umpire was wrong. No force play was involved and no force play can happen unless it is started by the batter.

Question—I have heard that Jack Dempsey refused to meet Harry Greb. Is there anything to this story? Do you think Dempsey had anything to fear at the hands of Harry Greb?

Answer—A matter of opinion. Dempsey was too big and strong for Greb.

Question—A claims that the space two feet in front of home plate is foul ground. B claims that it is not. Who is right?

Answer—Baseball never had any rule that two feet of foul ground exists in front of home plate.

ROBBERS LOSE $2

Denver—Two men entered the Delview Hotel here and handed F. O. Blackman $2 for a room. After they had signed the register, one of them pulled a gun and ordered Blackman to hold his hands. The clerk said he wouldn't do it and told the robbers to "go ahead and shoot." After repeating the order several times, the robbers took a hasty retreat, leaving the $2 with Blackman.

MORE MONEY NEEDED TO GUARD FORESTS, KELLETER CLAIMS

Adequate Protection Impossible Now, Director Points Out

Madison—(AP)—Adequate protection of Wisconsin's forests is impossible under present forestry appropriations, Paul D. Kelleter, conservation director said today in outlining a proposed forestry program to the governor and legislature.

A million dollars yearly is needed to carry out an adequate forestry program $415,000 of which would be used for protection, $315,000 for prevention, and $100,000 for actual suppression of fires, the director said. The remainder would cover preservation.

"The recent serious forest fire situation in northern and central Wisconsin has brought the need of forest protection to the attention of all the people," Mr. Kelleter said. "Wisconsin has fared miserably in protecting her forest resources."

Mr. Kelleter said a million dollars annual appropriation was authorized by the people in the forestry referendum of 1924, when more than half a million citizens voted to tax themselves two-tenths of a mill to acquire, preserve and develop forests of the state. He pointed out that a two-tenths mill tax would cost the individual taxpayer 20 cents for each $1,000 valuation. The total revenue would exceed $1,000,000.

"This would mean greater and more adequate forest development, including the acquisition of county tax deed lands suitable for state forests, more man power to prevent the stealing of timber from the state, planting of new trees, extended nursery operations, and effective cooperation in the development of county forests through the forest crop law."

The director stated that the small forestry budget now available enables the department to take definite steps in the right direction, but "they are tiny, tentative steps of an infant enterprise."

"The amount we are spending and proposing to spend for fire protection is insignificant in view of the social and economic costs of forest fires," Mr. Kelleter said. "The Fesh-tigo fire of 1871 cost 1,500 human lives, and smaller disasters in recent years are sufficient proof that to do less than we are doing would be nothing short of criminal from the standpoint of human safety alone."

"Let a million dollar program run but five short years and we can prove easily a ten million dollar return."

To get a Job Frank needed $200 (a true experience)

TWO months without work had used up every cent the Johnsons had in the bank. Just when they wondered where the next meal was coming from, Frank was offered a job, a good one—driving a milk wagon.

But when he was told he'd have to put up $200 for a bond, Frank's smile faded. "I guess I can't take the job," he said, "I haven't $200."

His prospective employer suggested that he go to a Household office and borrow the money. Frank went, dubiously. But he came home, elated.

He got the money in a business-like, dignified way. Household only asked his signature and his wife's. No co-makers were required. No investigations were made among his friends or merchants. And the charge was nearly a third less than the interest allowed by law, with no deductions or extra fees for anything.

FIRE DESTROYS RESIDENCE ON BAZILLE FARM

Marion, Tigerton and Clintonville Departments Fight Flames

(Special to Post-Crescent)
Clintonville. The Clintonville fire department was called to the Joe Bazille farm near Hunting Friday evening where the house was destroyed by fire. This is about 12 miles from this city, and both the Marion and Tigerton fire departments had previously been called but could not cope with the flames. The large farm home was almost entirely destroyed by the time the first fire fighters reached the scene but they succeeded in saving the other farm buildings. A large trout stream one-fourth mile distant furnished plenty water for the local fire truck. It is believed the fire started from a smokehouse. Much of the household furniture was saved. Local firemen remained at the scene all night, returning home at 4 o'clock Saturday morning.

About 20 Boy Scouts of Troop 1 enjoyed an overnight hike over the weekend. Saturday afternoon they left for the Wood cottage on Pine lake which is nearly ten miles from this city. KENTUCKY CARDINALS BUILD NEST NEAR CITY

(Special to Post-Crescent)
New London.—That the pair of Kentucky cardinals which during the past two winters have been a source of interest to many lovers of birds, have definitely chosen this city as their home was discovered by the Rev. F. S. Dayton, curator of the local museum and widely venerated in birdlore. The nest, in the first stages of construction, was discovered Saturday in the course of Mr. Dayton's trips into the woods. It was found along the Embarras river in the vicinity of the Hannan lumber yards. The birds have called repeatedly for food during storms at homes where food has been put out for them.

How To Play Contract Bridge

By Wilbur C. Whitehead

NOT ALL BIG HANDS SHOULD BE PLAYED AT NO TRUMP

Contract Bidding
1st Rd. 2nd Rd. 3rd Rd.
South 2 N.T. 3 N.T. Pass
West Pass Pass Pass
North 3 4 4
East 3 4 4

Auction Bidding
1st Rd. 2nd Rd. 3rd Rd.
South 1 N.T. 2 N.T. Pass
West Pass Pass Pass
North 2 3 4
East 2 3 4

In the above deal, South has what appears to be an enormous No Trump hand, especially in view of the fact that partner has shown something in his weakest suit, Spades. Of course, there are plenty of tricks to be taken in No Trump, except for the fact that adversary will obtain enough tricks early in the play to prevent a game being scored. Even with Spades as trumps, Declarer (North) must be very careful in his play in order to assure making a game. South's three No Trump bid appears perfectly proper but when North persists with his Spades, he should gracefully surrender.

The Salient Points of the Bidding
Contract: South, with an extremely powerful hand, stoppers in all four suits and apparently double stoppers in three, opens the bidding with two No Trumps. West passes and North takes out with three Spades. East passes and South bids three No Trumps for his hand is such that he would rather have it led up to than led through, at the initial lead West passes and North, with an absolutely worthless hand outside of the seven card Spade suit headed by the Jack, bids four Spades, concluding the bidding.

The Play
East opens the King of Hearts and the trick is taken with the Ace in Dummy. Declarer not only desires to lead through a possible honor combination in Spades that East may have, but also is desirous of stopping the Dummy of Hearts so as to prevent an adversary leading that suit later.

Accordingly, he leads the nine of Hearts from Dummy. West plays the ten and Declarer trumps. Declarer leads a trump from own hand and takes it with the Ace in Dummy. It will be very poor play for him now to take out the remaining trump. His proper play is to trump Dummy's Jack of Hearts and lead the ace of Diamonds, play the eight from Dummy and allow West to take the trick with the Queen. Should West now lead another Heart, Declarer will discard a Club in own hand and trump in Dummy. Should he lead a Diamond, a Club can be discarded on one of Dummy's Diamonds. Should he lead a Club, Declarer will lose no Clubs. Accordingly, East and West will make one Spade, and two Diamonds.

Mr. Whitehead will answer one question at a time concerning your bridge problems. Write to him care of the paper, enclosing self-addressed stamped envelope. Copyright 1931 by The Bell Syndicate, Inc.

Gila Monster Frightens Residents Of Hollywood

BY JESSIE HENDERSON
Copyright 1931, by Cons. Press
Hollywood.—For the first time in years a gila monster made its way into Hollywood Saturday. The stranger broke right into the movie business, too. It crawled from a vacant field owned by the Christie Brothers, who produce comedies, right over the lawn and up the steps of the Mack Sennett studios, where comedies are also produced.

But though the two-foot long lizard, with a bite reputed to be poisonous, its best to either into pictures, its advent was not looked upon as humor. Not very much.

The lizard, normally an inhabitant of the desert, waited until the actors in a mystery play satire emerged from the dark sound stage to shoot a scene in the dazzling sunlight. On the dark sound stage the actors had been ambushed by stuffed black cats, hood owls that really looked like a number of large and small dogs, some live mice and a man disguised as a ferocious gorilla. Every now and then Sennett, who was directing the picture, would think up another terrifying animal, which would be inserted, alive or stuffed, into the plot.

By the time the actors got out into the sunlight they were so accustomed to tough appearing animals that were either dummies or trained to be harmless and so unaccustomed to the blaze of daylight that they paid no heed to the visiting gila monster flattened upon the steps.

Andy Clyde, the comedian, was in stocking feet because of an impending change of shoes. He set a shoeless foot firmly on the extreme tip of gila's tail.

It developed practically at once that gila was neither stuffed nor tame. Mr. Clyde vaulted a rose hedge in an inspirational way seldom seen upon the screen while the ladies of the cast unloosed shrieks that would have turned a mystery play audience frigid to the marrow. In the excitement gila, convinced that Hollywood had been overrated, scuttled back across the lawn and through the Christie lot. He was last seen heading for the desert.

Ransom Two Missionaries Held By Reds

Hankow, China.—(P)—Ransom demanded by captors of two American missionaries held by bandits or Communists of central China has been paid and the missionaries have been released. Similar payment and release are expected in the case of a third.

The two released are the Rev. K. N. Tvedt, of St. Paul, American Lutheran United Mission missionary held captive by Chinese Communists near Hwangang, northern Hupeh, since last Oct. 17, and the Rev. Alie Godfrey Lindholm, of Ortonville, Minn., of the Scandinavian Alliance mission at Kaigan, captured by bandits last Thursday.

A ransom of $10,000 Mexican and $5,000 in medical supplies was paid for release of Tvedt, and of $2,500 in the case of Lindholm. A similar $10,000 ransom probably will be paid to secure the release of Bert Nelson, another Lutheran missionary captured at Kwangshan, Honan, last Oct. 5, and held with Tvedt at Hwangang.

Frank P. Lockhart, United States consul general at Hankow, today advised the Peiping legation that Miss Esther Nordlund, Chicago, Miss Augusta Nelson, and the Rev. Oscar Anderson, presumed Swedish, and all belonging to the Swedish covenant mission were captured by bandits at Kingchow, Hupeh, April 17. It is a standing rule that missions do not ransom their representatives but it has been modified in the cases of Tvedt and Nelson at request of American officials, who had reports that they were being tortured. Repeated representations at the Nanking government for the release of the two men were unavailing, the government being unable to break up the strong red movements.

Plant only the best. It does not require more space or effort to grow a good plant or flower than a poor one.

Two Spanish Princesses Quit Country For Exile

Madrid.—(P)—The last of the Spanish royal family was on its way into exile today aboard a train from Madrid to Irun and the French frontier where they will change for a Paris train.

The refugees were the Infantas Isabella and Beatrice, the former 80 years old and an invalid, the latter the wife of Don Alfonso of Bourbon, cousin of the king. She stayed at Isabella's bedside to take care of her when her kinspeople fled from Madrid.

Beatrice is a sister of Queen Marie of Rumania, a grand daughter of the late Queen Victoria of England, and a princess of Saxe-Coburg Gotha in her own right. She is reputed one of the most beautiful women in Europe and visited New York and Washington with her husband, who accompanied King Alfonso on his trip into exile, in 1925.

Their departure from Escorial station was without ceremony. A few aristocrats saw them off, but the time of their leaving was kept secret so as to avoid any public demonstrations. They will rejoin the rest of the royal family in Paris.

All Spain is tranquil and the government professes the most complete satisfaction with the matter in which citizenry have fallen in with the Republic's policies. New provincial governors were sworn in yesterday and the universities of the country are reopening today.

Sunday was tag day about the Puerte del Sol, principal section of Madrid, with seniorities of Republican families selling pictures of the executed Captains Fernyn Galan and Garcia Hernandez, "martyrs" of the Jaca revolt, for the benefit of Garcia's widow and Fernyn Galan's mother. The pictures were autographed by President Alcala Zamora. About $1,000 was raised.

CHIPPED IN THE BUD

Chicago.—The cowboy profession has lost another recruit, all because Joseph Tintoren, 14, didn't pick the right horse. Joseph decided to run away and become a cowboy, and picked an old horse, Red Charley, who had formerly seen service on a milk and a mail route. The 17-year-old steed wouldn't take young Joseph anywhere except over the old routes which he had traveled before. Before Joseph could change the horse's mind, police had captured the two adventurers.

RESUME TALK OF FLOWER GARDEN

Expect to Call Another Meeting to Consider Organization

Kaukauna—With the coming of spring weather and gardens, flower lovers are beginning to talk of bulbs, plants, flower seeds and organization of a garden club. A talk on flower gardens and beautifying the city with them was given at a recent meeting of the Kaukauna Advancement association by Mayor E. W. Fargo. At that time the organizing of a garden club in the city was discussed, but no definite action was taken.

The idea of a garden club has been discussed frequently since that time by an interested group and a meeting may be called soon for the purpose of organizing. With a garden club, members could be in a position to get the latest methods of raising varieties of flowers and in beautifying their yards. This would tend to make the city in general more beautiful.

Shrubs about the high school have been groomed and the city parks are also being cleaned up. A number of old trees in the Law-at park are being removed. They will be replaced by young, straight trees.

Social Items

Kaukauna—The Kaukauna Women's club will meet at 2:30 Tuesday afternoon in the club rooms of the public library. Mrs. J. E. Thompson will give a current topic and Mrs. E. Grogan will give a book review of "Pere Marquette."

A bake sale was held Saturday at the Avenue grocery by ladies of St. Mary's Catholic church. Group No. 16 was in charge.

The Catholic Order of Foresters, Holy Cross court, will meet Monday evening in Eagles hall on Wisconsin-ave.

Installation of officers of the St. Anne's court, No. 226, Women's Catholic Order of Foresters, will meet Tuesday evening in Eagles hall on Wisconsin-ave. The meeting will be preceded by a 6:30 covered dish party. Members have been requested to bring their own table service. Cards will be played after the meeting. Mrs. F. Nole and Mrs. J. Bodde are in charge.

NEW PITCHERS WORK OUT WITH CITY NINE

A hard practice was held, including a six inning game against a pick-up team. Falsinger did the tossing for the city squad and Kilgas hurled for the opponents. After six innings play was stopped with the Kaws having scored one run. With another week's practice the play will be much smoother and a practice game with Hilbert will be played.

The St. John's team is expected to repeat the successful season it had last year when it lost only a few games in a long, hard schedule. Smith, who is from Kaukauna and attended school here, has appeared with the local baseball team several times.

SMALLER ACREAGE OF CABBAGE SEEN IN THIS VICINITY

Reduction to One-third of Last Year's Crop Is Anticipated

BY W. F. WINSEY

Shiocton—It is reported by cabbage growers in this territory who are in a position to get the facts and to reach trustworthy conclusions that the acreage of cabbage this year will be only one-third of last year.

An equal reduction in the crop also predicted by cucumber growers. It is somewhat dangerous to spread reports of such reduction abroad among growers as each grower taking it as a fact that all the other growers are intending to reduce their acreages, will double his last year's acreage instead of reducing it.

Individual inquiries among the growers made by the writer on Saturday however showed that the cut in the acreages of these two crops would run from one-fourth to one-third with a number of the large growers planting as many acres as last year.

It was said that the reasons for planting smaller acreage this year are: first, that last year's crops are still in the warehouses; second, that the price was low last fall and a large part of the cabbage crop was not harvested; and third, that the cabbage and cucumber dealers are not eager to make contracts for acreages this spring.

Only 400 acres of cabbage will be raised under contract in the Shiocton territory this summer, and an exceedingly low acreage of cucumbers. The contract price of cabbage is only $7 per ton and the contract calls for one-third early cabbage and two-thirds late cabbage. Most of the growers must assume the full responsibility of raising cabbage this year.

The growers are planting their beds of early cabbage but the usual demand for seed is not apparent at the cabbage plants.

The slump in the cabbage and cucumber industries is probably due to unemployment and to the high retail prices of pickles and kraut.

Whatever reduction in the usual plantings of cabbage and cucumbers is made, it will be balanced by larger plantings of small grain, corn and other feed for dairy cattle.

GOOD STANDS OF HAY IN GRAND CHUTE TOWN

BY W. F. WINSEY

Stands of alfalfa, sweet clover, and permanent pastures in his section of the town of Grand Chute are promising not withstanding the drouth of last summer, according to Henry Guelfi. The late rain did those crops lots of good in thickening the stands and in promoting growth. What these crops need now is a series of April showers or better still a soaking warm rain. Small grain is all planted and farmers are working the fields they have selected for corn in a weed-sprouting and weed-killing campaign.

promoting better racing at the fairs and adopting uniform rules of racing.

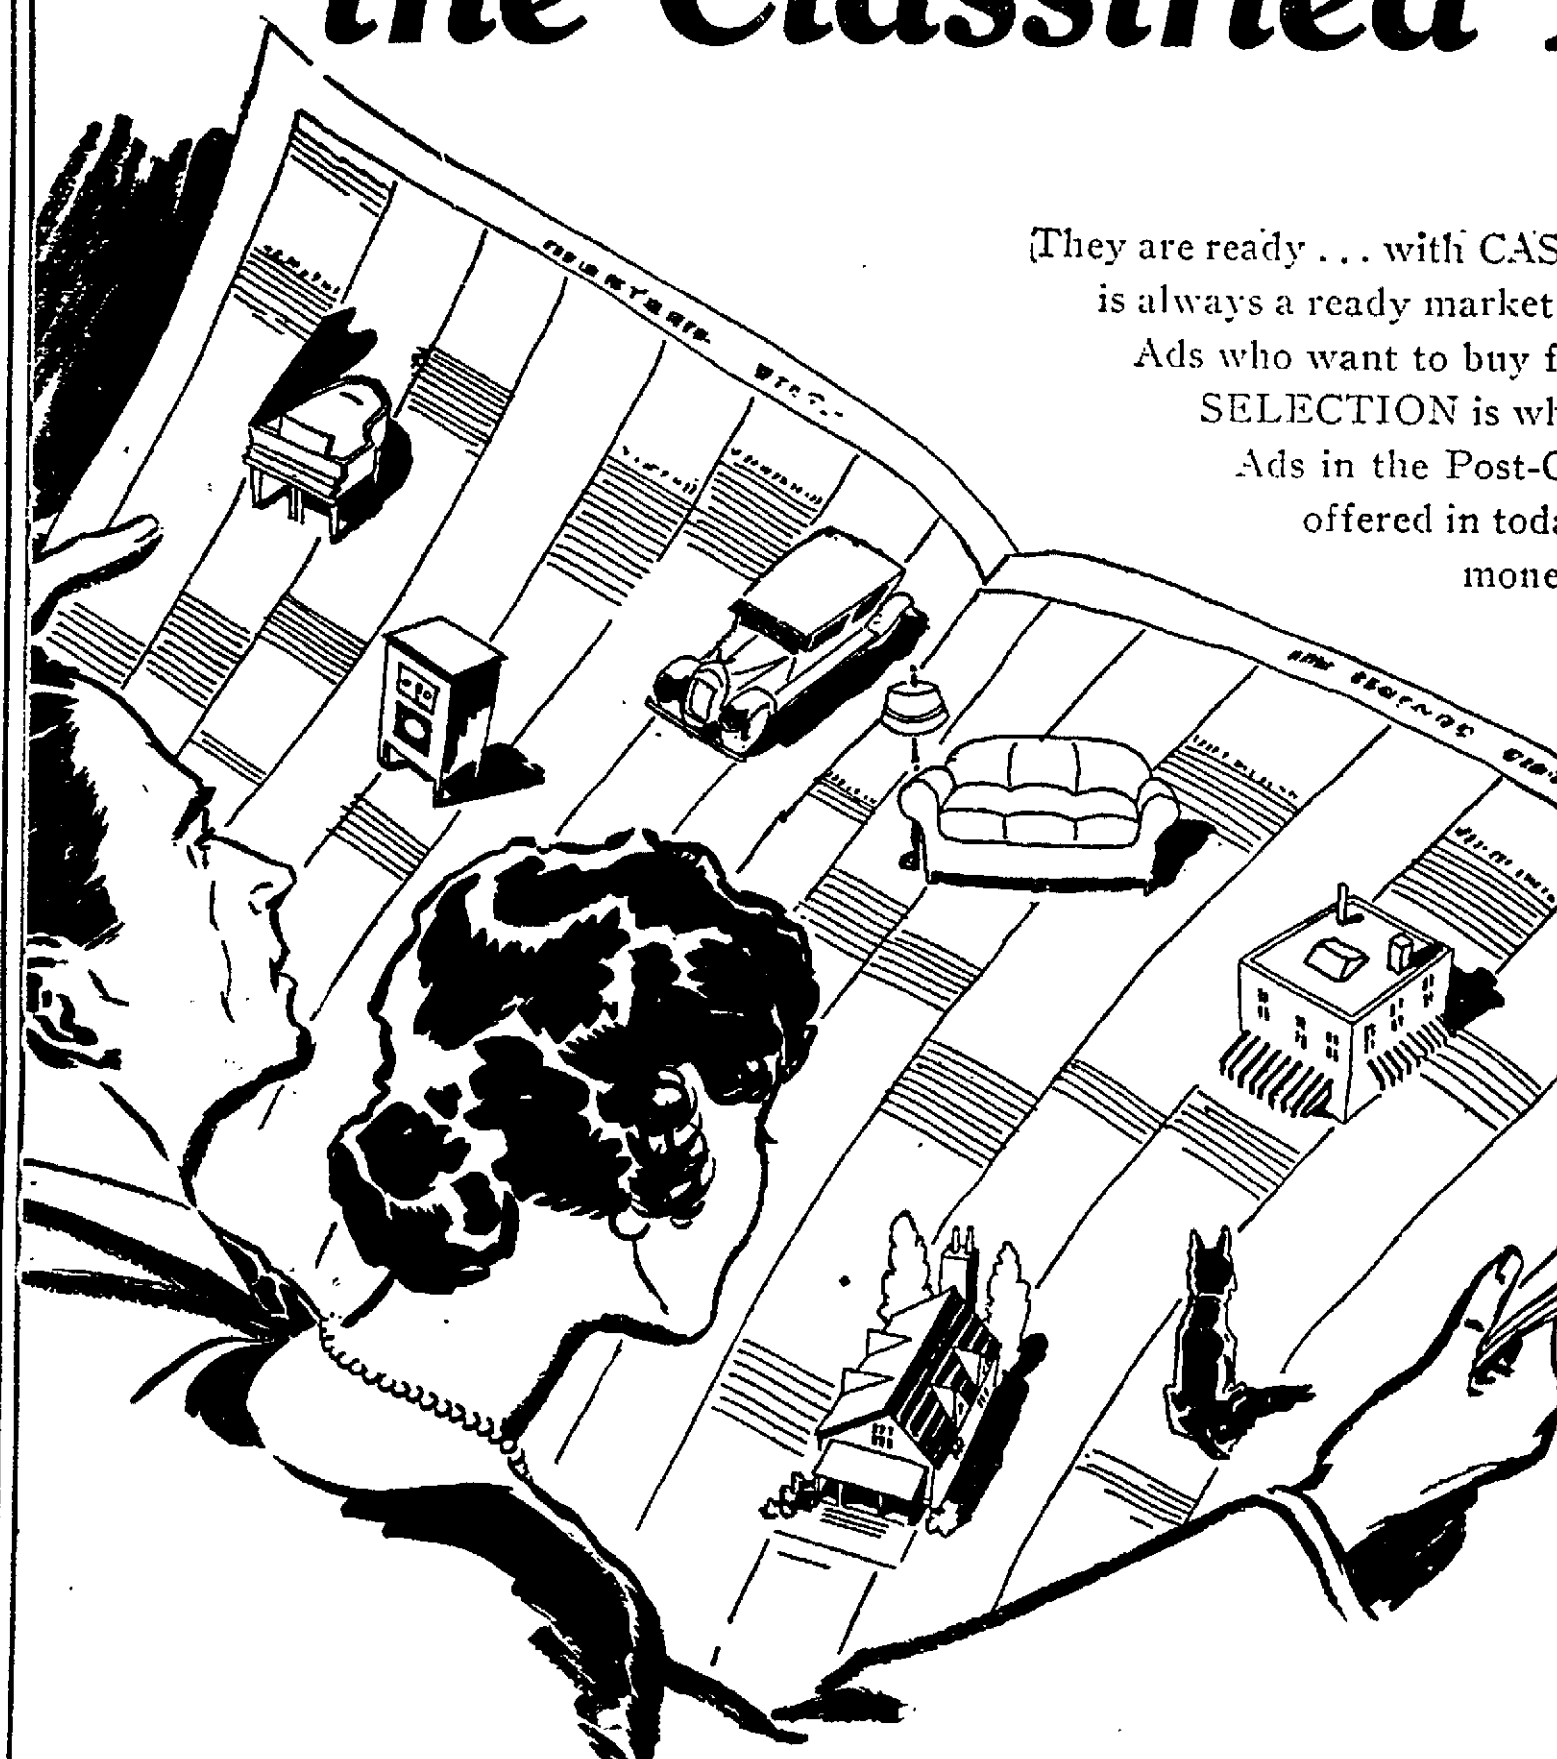

ISAAR FARMER HAS COMPLETED SEEDING

BY W. F. WINSEY

Isaar—Louis Ullmer has finished seeding his small grain, and is now killing quack grass in a 15-acre field in which he expects to plant corn. Last fall Mr. Ullmer pulled all the quack grass roots to the surface with a quack digger where they dried in the sun. For fear that some of the roots may have escaped the digger, Mr. Ullmer went over the field each way again this spring and is now working the field with a drag. During the winter Mr. Ullmer top dressed an old seeding of alfalfa in a 10 acre field with stable manure and lately dragged the field. His stand is now very promising and the manure will rush the alfalfa along into a big yield.

Chapter 42
RETRIBUTION

SORELY was I tempted, at times, to take the risk and go out of hiding—taking Marjorie with me—without waiting for the arrest, trial and condemnation of Clark Forsythe.

But I resisted the temptation partly because the police were seeking a man answering to my appearance (on the evidence of the station-master at Witherby End), partly because I had not known Marjorie long enough to ask her to trust herself to me and partly because some weeks at least must elapse ere I could receive from Uncle a sufficient sum of money for the purposes of safe and distant flight as well as for the payment of Williams R. Weldon and his wife, who had to leave the Monastery suddenly, for one night, we three having a rendezvous in his wife's room. William informed me as I entered that he had caught sight of the ugly face of James peeping round the end of the corridor.

"He'll have seen you come in, too," said William, "and he'll wait for some time to catch you going out. So we'll postpone this conference and slide out of the window. When 'Jimmy' gets tired of waiting, he'll butt-in here and get the surprise of his life."

Whereupon he unwound his strong knotted cord from beneath his dressing-gown, slipped its steel hook over the inner window-ledge and led the way to the turf, 20 feet below.

Mrs. William then dropped the cord down to us, and we re-entered the house by way of the window of William's ground-floor room.

Sure enough, James flung open the door and entered half an hour later and got, as William had said, the surprise of his life.

Albeit desperately anxious, I decided that, so long as I was alive, Marjorie was safe.

But I nevertheless took every possible precaution and exercised the most unceasing vigilance. Among the former were efforts to sow mutual distrust among the members of the gang, to mystify and frighten them and to find faithful friends and a safe refuge for Marjorie.

This last I contrived to do after making one of those ridiculous mistakes the memory of which makes one blush with shame.

Having jumped—too quickly—to the conclusion that the chief Nursing Sister was none other than "Frisco" Fanny and the wife of Charles, I soon discovered that she was one of the noblest and finest of women and that her brother, who was Vicar of Herepath, a neighboring village, was in every way her twin.

At my wit's end I paid a visit to this man, summed him up for what he was and then, having revealed myself to him, laid before him the naked truth and then asked:

"Do you believe me and will you help?"

His reply was:

"I do believe you, and I will help."

"Then," said I, "will you tell your sister everything that I have told you and that you are absolutely convinced that every word of it is true?"

"I will . . . But why not do that yourself?" he said.

"Because," I replied, "she would listen with patience, but my hand would be kindly sympathy and see that I had a good bromide sleeping draught that night."

"You see," I added, "I have been at some pains to acquire a reputation as a harmless lunatic."

Laurence Weldon smiled.

"Of course," he said, "You're the 'madman' of whom my sister has told me diverting stories. D'you know, I absolutely forgot all about that, as soon as you started telling me your history."

"You're in no doubt now," I smiled in return.

"None whatever. Nor will my sister be when I've finished talking to her. It will be a most frightful shock to her when she realizes the truth about Charles. She has the greatest respect for him. Her work in that Nursing-Home is her life. . . . By the way, I suppose Dr. Studley is all right?"

"Absolutely. He's in the dark as to the past history of Charles, MacAdoo and Mr. James. Studley is one of the best, and with a blameless record."

"I'm sure of it, but how do you know?"

"Oh, I have a splendid chap who has been working here—under the name of Campbell—for a very long time, and who has looked up his record pretty carefully. There's nobody there who isn't exactly what he or she seems to be, except Charles and his son, their two wives and MacAdoo. . . . When you've told Sister Weldon, and convinced her that I'm no more insane than you are, I'll tell her all I've told you, and convince her of my sanity. When the time is ripe I shall get Marjorie Lauderdel out of the Monastery and, as you have suggested, bring her straight here."

"It won't be easy to get her away," mused Weldon.

"No," I agreed, "it won't. But I'll get her away, all right, when the opportunity offers—provided your sister will help me, which, of course she will."

"But, hang it all, man," he exploded, "why not go straight to the police at once? We can . . ."

"We can't," I smiled. "As far as Marjorie's case is concerned there is not one shred of evidence. . . . and that Nursing-Sister is a place of unblemished reputation, approved by some of the most eminent doctors in England. . . . And as for myself—going to the police would be an easier matter than coming away from them. . . . Remember, I am a hunted criminal."

"But get your sister on my side, and I'll save Marjorie—and deal with Charles, James, MacAdoo and Co. afterwards."

"Yes," agreed Weldon. "Admirably conducted as The Monastery is, and with a splendid staff that includes Dr. Studley and my sister, it can't be allowed to go on. . . . under its present regime, anyhow."

A great weight was lifted from my mind now that I knew that I had found for Marjorie a safe refuge and the staunchest of friends.

Sister Weldon's position was difficult and rather terrible for, if my tale were true, her world was crumbling about her.

Her attitude increased, if possible, my admiration for her, for she decided to suspend judgment, to wait and watch, and then to act with the utmost discretion in the event of a crisis, and the confirmation of the truth of my story.

Should Charles, MacAdoo, James, the Matron and Nurse Jones prove to be what I accused them of being, nothing should prevent her immediate denunciation of them, nor induce her to work another day under their direction.

—In deference to her brother's admired judgment—wholly rejecting my story, she decided to watch and wait; to increase, if that were possible, her vigilance, and to view any strange happenings, if not with suspicion, at any rate in the light of what I had told her.

Again to shorten my story, the arch-enemy—the one whom I had hated Charles himself, the one who had sinned most against Rosemary, was now the one who sinned most against Marjorie, and, in so doing, met his death.

The man of them all whom I would most readily kill with torture but whom, softened by my love for Marjorie, I would have spared, brought about his own dreadful punishment in trying to kill Marjorie.

Charles, his father, broken-hearted and fearing exposure and arrest, fled, taking with him his partners in crime, his wife, his daughter-in-law, and the man MacAdoo.

What became of them I neither know nor care.

Of the four criminals who kidnapped Rosemary, three have died—dead of disease in consequence, and I am now content to leave the punishment of the fourth, their leader, in the hands of God.

Nevertheless, in the very act of leaving The Monastery in urgent haste and for ever, Marjorie and Sister Weldon being safely outside its walls, I spared a few minutes for an act of justice, of punishment to the arch-enemy of this gang, and I believe, of benefit to mankind.

Brighter, even, than Way's regained Unsettling Sun is the glow of Marjorie's affection, revealed in Monday's concluding installment.

AUNE MYSTERY IS SOLVED AS BODY IS FOUND

Madison Boat Builder Finds Body of Missing Assemblyman in Lake

Madison—(P)—The mystery over the disappearance of H. A. Aune, Baldwin, Progressive Republican assemblyman from St. Croix-co, was cleared today.

Aune disappeared from a hotel room here Feb. 26 leaving a note directed to Dr. C. A. Harper, state health officer, indicating "I intended to end his life because he feared loss of his sanity. The note said his body would be found in the lake east of the capital."

Yesterday, Michael Scott, Madison boat builder, found the body floating in Lake Monona. Coroner A. D. Campbell was notified and the body was identified as that of the missing legislator. Only last week Gov. Phil La Follette signed a bill providing a $100 reward for the finding of the body. Senator Walter H. Hays, River Falls, close personal friend of the dead assemblyman, took charge of the body stating it probably would be taken to Baldwin today. Aune's widow was at Menomonie, Wis., where a son was attending Stout Institute. Four other children survive.

The finding of the body climaxed a concerted search. When he disappeared, ice on the lake prevented finding of the body. With opening of the lake a month ago, police dragged for the body and a search from an airplane was resorted to.

Aune, well known in Wisconsin educational circles as a county and high school superintendent, was in ill health several months prior to his death. He spent several weeks in a sanatorium at Rochester, Minn. He was characterized by his friends as a brilliant man.

Under the statutes, the matter of filling the vacancy is discretionary with the governor, since the vacancy occurred after Feb. 1. He may call a special election to fill the seat, but the view is here that since the legislative session has progressed so far, the seat will not be filled until the 1932 regular election.

BOILING LYE POURED ON FATHER, TWO SONS

New York—(P)—Boiling lye and water were poured on Samuel Aisen and his two sons, Harold, 11, and Martin, 14, as they slept early today in their Brooklyn apartment. Police arrested Mrs. Minnie Aisen, stepmother of the boys, whom they found in a nightdress in a court yard.

Detectives said neighbors informed them that the stepmother had been jealous of the boys. A year ago she married Aisen, who is 42 and a printer, bringing to his house her own child, now 4.

Police were called to the apartment by neighbors who heard Aisen's screams. They found him in the hall, trying vainly to beat down the locked door. His body was badly seared.

Inside the two children were almost as badly burned. In addition they had been beaten with a hammer. Mrs. Aisen was arrested as she limped out of the courtyard. Police said she had jumped from the rear window of her apartment, spraining her ankle.

At Coney Island hospital physicians said Aisen was burned from head to waist and might not recover.

Building Permits

One building permit was issued Saturday by John N. Weiland, building inspector. It was granted to Marie Berndt, 510 Lincoln-st., one car garage.

In Filii boys are taught by their fathers to strike their mothers, this being a practice to prevent the boys from becoming cowards.

to Plinn. A divorce is pending between the pair, already remarried after their first marriage was annulled.

Kept Marriage Secret
They met, she said, in May, 1928, while she was a student at MacAlester college and five months later they returned to the homes of their parents and kept the marriage secret for nearly a year. Meanwhile, Mrs. Drill went to a summer session at the University of Wisconsin and enrolled for the fall session at Carlton college, Northfield, Minn.

The marriage was discovered and because of parental objections, the girl said, an annulment resulted. The youth met her on the campus of the Minnesota school and climaxed his protestation of love by shooting himself through the lung.

She remarried him, she said, mainly to keep him from again shooting himself. A letter found on Drill here and written by his wife to Drill's father said in part:

"Harry forced me to marry him. I don't care to have people shooting themselves in front of me."

Mrs. Drill said she lived with her husband but a short time after their second marriage and then went east to attend school at the City College of New York after evading Drill by visiting relatives in Chicago and Indiana.

The girl said she was in front of a restaurant in New York when her husband and two men approached. "I was shoved into the car," she said, "and thrown to the floor and told to keep quiet. We drove outside New York and I was transferred to another car driven by Peterson. I gave up resistance because I knew it would do no good. But I did take a gun my husband had and threw it away."

TRYING TO IMPROVE SERVICE BY STATE

Governor Holds Monthly Conferences in Effort to Cut Expenses

Madison—(P)—Means by which the state service can be improved at reduced expense will be discussed at monthly conferences between Gov. Philip La Follette and the heads of all departments of the state, the governor announced today.

The first such conference was held at the executive offices Saturday with the heads of 20 departments in attendance. President Glenn Frank of the University of Wisconsin, and E. G. Doudna, secretary of the board of normal school regents, were among those who conferred with the governor.

Gov. La Follette pointed out that the legislature has passed the Bergs bill which provides that there shall be no salary increases except by approval of the emergency board. This legislation followed recommendations made by the governor in his message to the legislature.

A committee was appointed at the conference which will report recommendations at a later meeting. The committee is composed of Col. John J. Hannan, president of the board of control, President Frank, Charles Hill, commissioner of agriculture, Fred M. Wilcox, chairman of the industrial commission, and A. E. Garey, head of the bureau of personnel.

Gov. La Follette told the department heads that a reduction of $75,000 to $100,000 annually can be effected in traveling expenses. The figures were based on the cost of similar traveling by private business concerns in Wisconsin.

SWIMMING STAR TO ENTER ZIEGFELD SHOW

New York—(P)—Eleanor Holm of Brooklyn, swimming star, is going on the stage for Florence Ziegfeld as "a little girl." She is now rehearsing several sketches, all of which require that she wear ruffles and flounces and hair ribbons.

She is 17 years old, weighs 112 pounds and is five feet two inches tall. For all her lack of size she won the A. U. 300-yard medley championship for the fourth consecutive time last week, and then plunged back into the tank to become 100-yard backstroke champion. She intends to continue her swimming and make the next Olympic team.

Outdoor Living Room In Need Of Shrubs For Color

Shrubs are the backbone of the planting for they make splendid hedges and backgrounds, they cushion sharp lines, shut out unpleasant views, hide fences, provide shade for paths, and make suitable plantings for driveways.

Ten well-known hardy flowering shrubs that require little care and which are extremely decorative are: Barberry, Forsythia, Deutzia, Philadelphus, Lilac, Japanese Quince, Abelia, Beauty Bush, Spiraea and Weigela. Perhaps you wish to renew some of your shrub borders or add to your present plantings—if so, you will find this list includes varieties for every purpose and location. Like perennials, shrubs appear to best advantage when several of one kind are grouped together.

No shrub is more generally planted or more practical for all purposes where beautiful foliage effects are desired than the Barberry (Berberis). For compact, impenetrable hedges they are peculiarly effective, owing to their spiny branches which form an intertwining mass. In addition to their fine hedging qualities the various members of the Barberry family are also useful as fillers and edgings in shrubbery groups, and as foundation screens in front of porches.

The Barberry is not only attractive in summer when its graceful branches are clothed in fine green foliage, but in crimson fruit and standing in autumn and winter. Berberis thunbergii atropurpurea is a recent introduction. Its foliage is a warm bronzy red in spring, becoming more brilliant in summer, to which autumn adds other tints.

A bright-hued shrub that is a welcome sight in early spring is the beautiful Forsythia (Golden Bell), whose courageous blossoms of bright yellow appear toward the end of April even before its leaves have dared to venture forth.

Deutzias vary considerably in height and growing habit, but the dainty bell or tassel-shaped flowers are characteristic of all of them. They bloom in late May or early June and most of the blooms are white although a few are pink tinted.

The dwarfest growing is Deutzia gracilis, which forms a dense bush adapted to hedging purposes.

For tall screening hedges Philadelphus (Mock Orange) has always been useful. Philadelphus coronarius blooms in May in very graceful arrays that are slightly scented. A magnificent new variety which grows moderately tall is the lovely Philadelphus virginialis. Its flowers are the largest, handsomest and most sweetly fragrant of any known variety. Mock Oranges do well in some shade and appreciate a little lime added to their diet.

Can you imagine springtime without lilacs to cast their spell over the garden? If you haven't several kinds of this well-known shrub, plan to include some this spring. The season of lilac bloom is all too short, but by proper selection of varieties their blooming period may be extended several weeks.

A fine old shrub which blooms very early in spring is Japan Quince (Cydonia). It is a medium-sized shrub of spreading growth with dark glossy leaves. Flowers range in color from a soft rose to dazzling scarlet.

Abelia grandiflora (often called "Bush Arbutus") is an attractive shrub of dwarf habit that is rarely without some bloom from June to November. The pretty flowers are small but numerous, in loose terminal panicles and in color are white flushed with pink.

One of the newer shrubs which is proving to be one of the most popular of recent introductions is the charming Beauty Bush (Kolkwitzia amabilis). It was brought from the high mountains of China and is hardy in New England's severe climate. The graceful arching branches are studded with clear pink blossoms of delicate shading, transforming the plant into a fountain of bloom. This tall growing shrub will prove a most excellent addition to your planting.

A large and interesting group of shrubs are the Spiraeas, which may be had in varieties ranging from three to ten feet in height. A handsome new introduction among the taller sorts is Spiraea Trichocarpa (Korean Spiraea). It is perfectly hardy and its flowers are larger than those of the Van Houtte, which variety it follows in season of bloom, thus prolonging the showiness of this type.

Last on this list of shrubs is the showy Weigela, which is suitable for medium and back rows up to 8 feet. Weigela Eva Rathke is a conspicuous variety with deep carmine red flowers in July. Another choice variety in bloom during June and to some extent all summer is Weigela Candida. Its flowers are pure white.

From this list of ten interesting shrubs you will be able to select varieties suited to your own grounds and while some may be new acquaintances to you, you need not be in doubt as to their fine qualities—each variety has proven itself hardy and easy to grow. NEW POLICY OF U. S. LIKELY TO SET PRECEDENT

Expected to Be Followed When Unrest Develops in Other Countries

BY DAVID LAWRENCE
(Copyright 1931 by Post Pub. Co.)
Washington (CPA)—The new policy of the Hoover administration in advising American citizens that they cannot expect the protection of the United States government while residing in Nicaragua, probably will be followed whenever unrest develops in other Latin-American countries.

European governments which have hitherto depended upon the United States to protect all foreigners in this hemisphere are looking askance at the action of the American government. The department of state argues, however, that all protection has not been withdrawn but simply the use of armed forces in the interior of Nicaragua and that protection continues to be given at sea coast towns where American naval vessels can afford refuge and even use their guns and land marines and blue jackets in emergencies.

Foreign governments will not be criticized if they send their own naval vessels to assist in taking off refugees thought to be in danger of attack on a Nicaraguan port or landing of the marines of any power except the United States would not be viewed as friendly.

May Force Change
If the present disturbance in Nicaragua should lead to the killing of more Americans and foreigners, the department of state might have to change its policy again, but this would be in response to an aroused American public opinion. In recent years less and less interest has been taken by the American press in the murder of American citizens who live abroad. Overt acts, however, have a way of inflaming the public conscience. The American government is lending material and moral support to the Nicaraguan government in the hope it can deal with the insurgent forces at inland points. The guerrilla warfare which has been conducted against the American marines has grown more and more difficult to handle, as the Nicaraguan authorities themselves have been in an unpopular position because of the presence of foreign forces on Nicaraguan soil.

The elimination of American marines will limit the combat to the Nicaraguan government and the insurgents. The Nicaraguan National guard is being instructed by American marines, officers and ultimately the national guard may become a standing army. The United States has had some success in training local constabularies to preserve order in Cuba and Haiti. It has been found much easier to strengthen the existing administration by indirect means than by taking the field against insurgents.

While the new policy of the American government is satisfactory to many members of congress, particularly the Progressives, it is going to be criticized by Americans living abroad as a sign of diminished effectiveness of the American passport in foreign countries. To offset any such idea it will be necessary for the American naval forces to be concentrated near port cities and towns on both coasts of Nicaragua so that help can be extended promptly.

WANT TO LOOK YOUNG?

The secret of keeping young is to feel young—to do this you must watch your liver and bowels—there's no need of having a sorrowful complexion. Dark rings under your eyes—pimples—a bilious look in your face—dull eyes with no sparkle. The doctor will tell you ninety per cent of all sickness comes from inactive bowels and liver.

Dr. Edwards, a well-known physician in Ohio, perfected a vegetable compound as a substitute for calomel to act on the liver and bowels, which he gave to his patients for years.

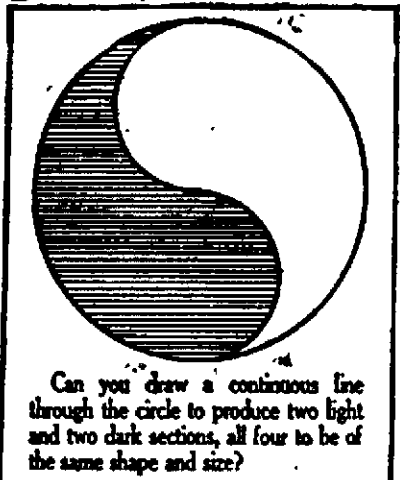

Dr. Edwards Olive Tablets are gentle in their action yet always effective. They help bring about that natural buoyancy which all should enjoy by toning up the liver and clearing the system of impurities. Dr. Edwards Olive Tablets are known by their olive color. 35c, 50c and 60c. adv.

FEATURE PROSPERITY AT BUSINESS MEETING

Madison—(AP)—Based on the keynote of "Preparing for Prosperity," the annual statewide conference for business men will be held here May 18, according to an announcement today by Chester Lloyd Jones, director of the school of commerce, University of Wisconsin.

Although the program still is incomplete, Professor Jones said he has been assured that David Friday, Washington, economist and statistician, and Benjamin M. Squires, chairman of the trade board of the men's clothing industry of Chicago, and chairman of the Illinois Governor's commission on unemployment and relief will speak.

Mr. Friday is to talk on "Forces Which Restore Prosperity," and Mr. Squires is to address the business men on "Stabilizing Employment."

The conference will be the fourth annual meeting and is jointly conducted by the university school of commerce and the extension division. More than 600 persons attended the meeting last year.

"GOOD BUYING" IS ADVICE THAT MAY PROVE DANGEROUS

Small Buyers Shouldn't Always Be Anxious to "Follow Leader"

BY GEORGE T. HUGHES

Copyright, 1931, by Cons. Press.

New York—One of the phrases constantly used in the talk about the brokerage offices in Wall Street is "good buying." Sometimes they reverse it and say there is "good selling" in this or that stock. What they mean is that the buyers or the sellers, as the case may be, are people of large means and well informed.

The small fry are supposed to do well if they follow this good buying or this good selling. No assumption could be more dangerous. Sometimes when a small investor is asked to buy a stock he is shown the list of directors containing names of prominence, representative of great wealth. This is supposed to be a sure indication of safety. It is nothing of the kind. As a matter of fact the big fellows make as many mistakes as the small ones do. They lose more money. The only difference is that when a rich man loses money it is not a disaster.

In support of this thesis may be evidenced the portfolios of the investment trusts which were organized with so much assurance back in the now almost forgotten days of the bull market. These investment trusts as well as certain financial organizations, normally large buyers of common stocks, loaded up with equities not perhaps at the highest prices but at levels which look absurdly high now-a-days. Sometimes they sold out at a loss and sometimes they held on at a larger loss but one as yet not accepted. These trusts were understood to have and did have the benefit of the best advice that the financial world could offer. There is only one of two conclusions possible, either that they did not act on the advice given, or that the advice was bad. Of course it will all work out eventually. The stronger of these organizations have large resources and can afford to hold on until the return of normal times in business and in the security markets. The point is that the small capitalist who took his cue from what he could learn about the commitments of the large capitalist made a mistake more serious to him than were the errors of these more important people. There is only one yardstick to use in measuring the value of securities and that is merit.

URGES EFFECTIVE UTILIZATION OF ALL IDLE LANDS

Land Tax Is Only Method for Northern Counties to Raise Funds

Madison—(AP)—Although the movement is away from heavy general property taxes, the main source of income for northern counties is that tax, according to Prof. George S. Wehrlein, of the University of Wisconsin college of agriculture, who advocates effective utilization of land to give an adequate tax base. He says studies have shown that in northern Wisconsin, more than 85 per cent of the county revenue comes from general property taxes, and as a result, a "balanced use of land—farms, forests and recreation—will mean taxable wealth and therefore an adequate tax base."

Three classes of land form the "effective" tax base for northern counties. They are farms, merchantable timber, and recreation and from these the large bulk of tax money comes. To illustrate his point, he says:

"In Oneida county the land used for recreation or which is assessed or being held for this purpose represents only 8 1/2 per cent of the area of the county but pays 37 per cent of the taxes levied in the towns, exclusive of Rhinelander. Agricultural land occupies about the same area and pays 29 per cent of the taxes. In other words 17 per cent of the land pays 67 per cent of the taxes of the towns, whereas the unused land pays 43 per cent.

"The used land bears the burden in three ways. First, it is the more valuable property and is assessed more per acre; second, it is highly improved, which adds to the tax base, and third, it pays its taxes, whereas the unused land is delinquent to a far greater extent."

Prof. Wehrlein said the future is uncertain. Should the demand for frontage drop suddenly, there would be the danger of delinquency.
